Retires From Committees

J. M. Wells Ends Long Service As USPA Spokesman

Joseph M. Wells, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Homer Laughlin China Co., today announced his retirement from active committee participation in the U. S. Pottery Association, ending 30 years as principal spokesman on labor relations, tariff protection and many other facets of the dinnerware manufacturers' business.

His post as head of the USPA labor committee will be filled by co-chairmen — his son, J. M. Wells Jr., who is personnel manager of Homer Laughlin, and John T. Hall, president of the Hall China Co.

J. M. Wells Jr. also has been named to the USPA foreign trade committee to fill the vacancy left by his father. Everson Hall, vice president of the Hall China Co., is the new chairman of the committee, which was headed for many years by the elder Wells.

M. W. Thompson, chairman of the board and treasurer of the Hall China Co., also announced his retirement from the foreign trade committee.

The retirement of J. M. Wells marks a period of 56 years that the labor committee has been headed by him and his father, the late W. E. Wells, who held a similar position with Homer Laughlin.

W. E. Wells headed the management negotiators beginning in 1903, when industrywide collective bargaining began in the pottery industry. He served 26 years, retiring in 1929 when he was succeeded by J. M. Wells.

As part of unburdening himself of posts in which he has served for years, Wells also announced his retirement as national councilor, first vice president and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce.

He has served in the Chamber posts concurrently with his USPA committee chairmanships. As national councilor of the Chamber, he automatically was a member of the board. Successors in the Chamber posts probably will be named in January at the annual reorganization of the board.

In his capacity as head of the USPA committees, Wells was in charge of periodic negotiations with the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters on new wage agreements and helped settle other labor-management difficulties.

In addition, he was the leader for many years in a battle to win better tariff protection for the American dinnerware industry. He made frequent appearances before congressional committees, asking quotas on foreign imports or other protection for both industries and jobs.

Each year, as chairman of the labor committee, he presented a report to the annual meeting of the USPA that amounted to a "state of the industry" analysis of the pottery business, particularly in 1959.

$112,988,000 Budget Set In West Virginia

$1.3 Million Under This Year's Fund, Board Points Out

CHARLESTON (AP) — The state budget which the Board of Public Works will recommend to the Legislature for the next fiscal year is $134,700,000 under this year's budget as to general revenue operating appropriations.

Even so, the operating total proposed by the board exceeds the recommendations of Finance Commissioner Henry L. Ash by $1,288,000.

A total of $112,988,000 in operating appropriations from general revenue is called for by the budget which the board will send to the Legislature when it convenes Jan. 13. The budget covers the 1960-61 fiscal year, which starts next July 1.

In addition to the operating appropriations, the board recommended $1,498,000 in appropriations from surplus expected to be on hand in the general revenue fund at the end of 1960-61. These appropriations, for three building projects, are contingent on there being enough surplus.

The operating appropriations and the surplus items come to a total of $114,486,000 in recommended appropriations from general revenue. Theoretically, the treasury would have a general revenue balance of $117,000 left at the end of the fiscal year after that outlay.

With two exceptions, the board's recommendations are a ceiling on the budget finally enacted by the Legislature. The lawmakers may reduce or eliminate items, but may not increase them above the figures recommended by the board.

The exceptions set forth in the constitution are appropriations for the Legislature's own expenses and for those of the judiciary. The Legislature is free either to increase or decrease its own items. The only change it may make in the board's recommendations for the judiciary is upward.

The board finished five days of work on its budget recommendations yesterday.

Accounting for the drop in the general revenue operating total, as compared with this year, was omission of an appropriation for continuation of the statewide property reappraisal program. The current year's appropriation for the program was $1,500,000.

The Tax Department, which is conducting the program, has about $1,200,000 in reserve for this purpose, in addition to this year's allocation.

20 At Crime Meeting Are Found Guilty

Convicted Of Effort To Hide Purpose Of Conclave In 1957

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal court jury Friday convicted 20 delegates to the 1957 Apalachin underworld convention of conspiracy to hide the real purpose of the conclave.

The conviction was hailed by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers as "a landmark in the government's fight against organized crime and racketeers."

The verdict was returned by a jury of eight men and four women after more than 15 hours of deliberation to climax the 53-day trial. Some of the well-dressed defendants slumped in their seats, several sobbed. One moaned in Italian: "I'm innocent."

Judge Irving R. Kaufman commended the jury for its "intelligent verdict." He set Jan. 14 for sentencing. Each of the convicted men could get up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

"You deserve the thanks of the community and the nation by your patience in sitting through this trial," Judge Kaufman told the jury. "This will show the country that grand juries and other federal agencies cannot be defied or sneered at by people who consider themselves above, and beyond the law."

The defendants had explained the meeting of more than 60 underworld figures Nov. 14, 1957, at the Apalachin, N.Y., hillside estate of the late Joseph Barbara Sr. as a visit to a sick friend or a social affair. Some said they were there because they had auto trouble nearby.

Throughout the trial, the government conceded that it did not know the secret purpose of the meeting. However, Arthur L. Reuter, onetime acting commissioner of investigation, said in a report for former Gov. Averell Harriman that the conclave was believed to have been called to split up territories, divide proceeds and discuss extension of racketeering in labor unions.

From all over the country and even Cuba and Italy, the gangsters had converged on the mansion of Barbara, a 53-year-old beer and soft drink distributor who died of a heart attack last June. The meeting never got underway. State police began recording the license numbers of their expensive cars and a roadblock was set up at the entrance to the estate.

Many delegates scrambled into their cars and sped straight into the roadblock. Others fled on foot into the nearby woods. John C. Montana, 66, a usually dignified former Republican councilman in Buffalo and onetime man of the year there, was caught when he hopelessly tangled himself in a barbed wire fence.

Allies Face New Issues About Berlin

Fresh Difficulties Seen As West Big 4 Begin Policy Talks

PARIS (AP) — New Allied difficulties on Berlin were reported developing today as the Western Big Four assembled for policy talks.

Sources emphasized that the differences have not yet crystallized — especially since the American position has not been worked out.

Allied leaders count on at least several months grace to work out a policy on the divided city before meeting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the summit sometime next year.

The United States has raised the question — without taking a specific stand — whether the Allies should be ready, if pushed by Khrushchev, to negotiate a new status for Berlin.

In any case the Americans hold that existing Western rights in West Berlin, surrounded by Communist East German territory, must remain intact.

Britain is known to favor a stopgap deal for Berlin pending a final German peace settlement.

France, with fervent West German backing, is resisting any temporary deal. The French argue that any change would jeopardize the Allied rights in Berlin. The French contend that if Khrushchev really wants a political accommodation with the West he will make no trouble over Berlin.

Accordingly they insist that the Allies go no further in offering concessions to Moscow than those put forward at last spring's Geneva conference.

In the unsuccessful Geneva meetings, the Western powers indicated a readiness to cut their Berlin garrisons, to curb propaganda activities in West Berlin if the Reds would do the same in East Berlin, to accept East German control along the routes into the city from West Germany. They also offered to look at the situation again after five years.

The Soviets stood firm on Khrushchev's original demand that Western troops get out of Berlin, but they dropped Khrushchev's six-month time limit, which already had expired without incident.

Six-Day Tour Is Completed By Rockefeller

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has wound up his 5,636-mile six-day tour that took him into seven states. He says he has done all the traveling he is going to do in researching his presidential possibilities.

Rockefeller called the trip "wonderful."

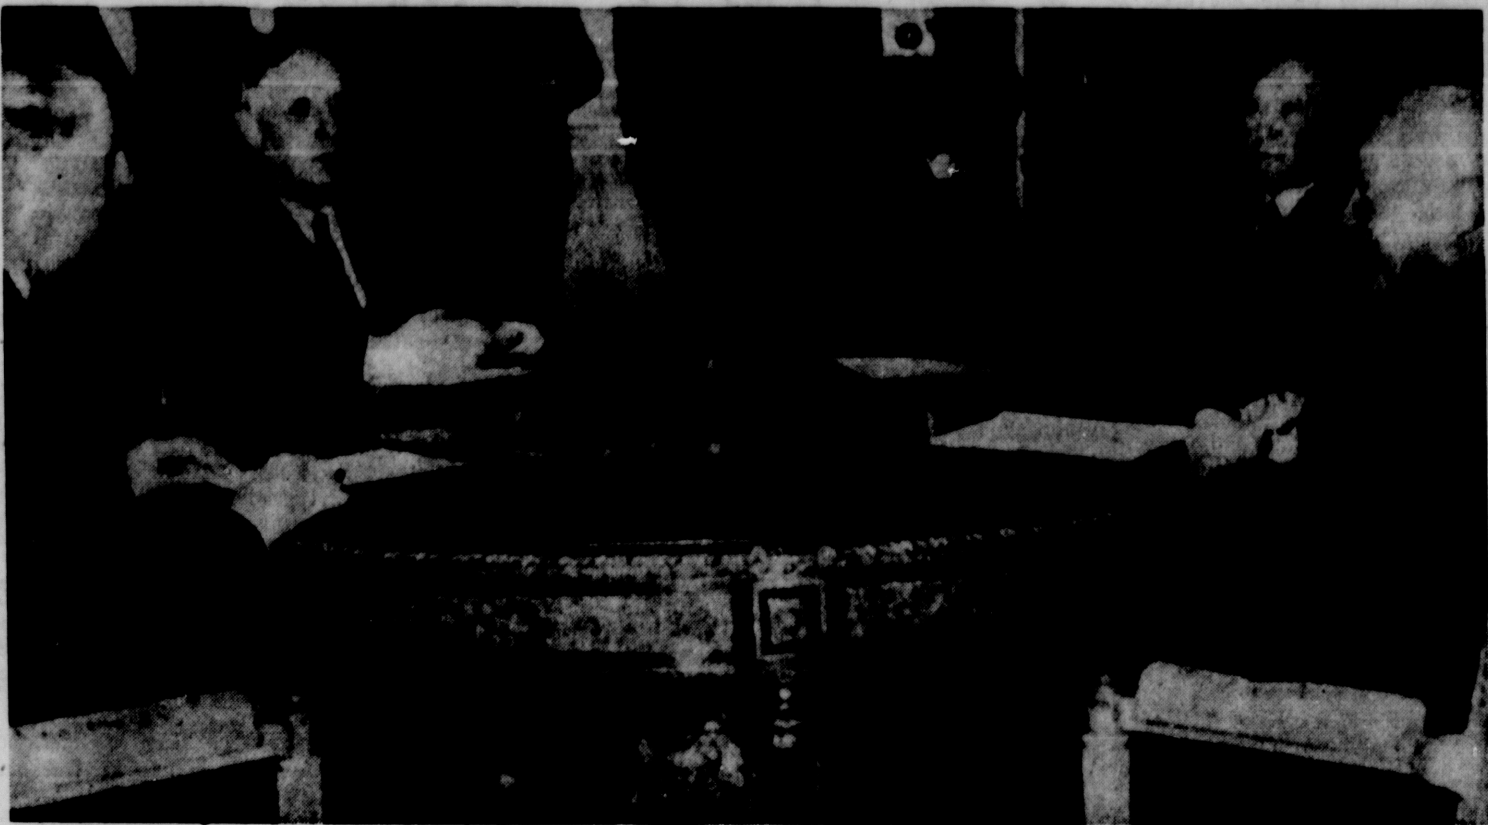

He arrived here by plane Friday night from Miami after a three-hour delay caused by a broken water hose in one of the plane's engines and air traffic congestion in the New York area. He left immediately by car to spend part of the weekend with relatives and friends in Millbrook, N.Y.

Rockefeller told newsmen in Miami that the trip winds up "all the fact-finding I'm going to do by traveling." The governor has indicated that public opinion polls also will influence his decision as to whether he oppose Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

"I'm neither optimistic nor pessimistic," Rockefeller said when asked whether the trip had shed any light on his national political possibilities. He said he wants to make up his mind before the New York Legislature meets Jan. 5.

He received a warm welcome in Florida, although GOP leaders there overwhelmingly favor Nixon.

Asked if he had been asked to enter the Florida presidential primary, Rockefeller replied: "Well, I haven't been crowded on it."

Another U.S. Citizen Faces Term In Cuba

Miami Businessman Handed 13 Years For Conspiracy Plot

HAVANA (AP) — Another U.S. citizen faced a long prison sentence for alleged counter-revolutionary activities and two condemned enemies of Fidel Castro's regime were ordered before a firing squad today.

John V. Martino, an ailing Miami, Fla., businessman accused of serving as a link between anti-Castro forces in Cuba and Florida, was handed a 13-year sentence yesterday. The prosecution had asked for a 20-year term.

Martino, 49, joins two other Americans convicted by revived military tribunals within the past months — pilot - Adventurer Frank Austin Young, sentenced to 30 years; and Peter John Lambton of Nassau, Bahamas, given 25 years.

A fourth American, Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan, is being held for trial on charges of aiding Young in his brief escape from a Pinar del Rio prison last week.

Two Americans arrested last week when they came to Havana to join the Caribbean Legion were released Friday night. Military intelligence headquarters said the two — Edwin R. Eckersley, 26, of Portland, Ore., and Monty Mulph, 21, of Eden, Idaho — boarded a plane for Miami. The Legion is a loosely organized group of adventurers with the announced objective of overthrowing dictatorships.

Scheduled for execution today were two former soldiers of ex-President Fulgencio Batista, Luis Lara and Jose Morfi. They were convicted of plotting a military uprising against Prime Minister Castro's government.

Martino was convicted of attempting to smuggle the wife of a former Batista army officer, Col. Esteban Ventura, out of Cuba and of carrying a bond of the White Rose Society, a counter-revolutionary group operating in the United States.

Train-Car Collision Kills 8 In Michigan

FLOWERVILLE, Mich. (AP) — A train-car collision killed eight persons in this southern Michigan village late Friday.

Witnesses said the car occupied by five adults and three children drove onto a Chesapeake & Ohio Railway crossing just as the streamlined passenger train "Pere Marquette" sped through at 65 miles an hour.

The crash at 5:44 p.m., wiped out all the members of one family — Clyde E. Ballard, 22, his wife, Bertha, 24, and their son, Keith, 8 months, of Fenton, Mich.

Others killed were Albert Simpson Sr., 29, of Fenton, driver of the car, and his son, Albert Jr., 2 months; Mildred Cameron, 26, of Howell, Mich., and her daughter, Dawn, 9; and George Copeman, 36, of Fenton.

Second Reading Due 'Numbers' Action Set Again Monday

A controversial anti-gambling ordinance aimed mainly at the numbers racket is scheduled to come up for the second of three required readings when the retiring Council holds its last regular meeting Monday night.

The outlook at present is that the legislation will move through second reading but will die at the end of the current biennium Dec. 31. With a 4-3 split among the councilmen, a special meeting would be required before the end of the year to vote it into law.

ALL 7 MEMBERS voted for two preliminary motions Dec. 7 when the ordinance first was taken onto the floor. But a motion to suspend the rules and enact the legislation at a single meeting was turned down, 4-3.

Councilmen A. Stanley Kidder, W. E. Kaiser, William Y. Orr and Robert W. Sample Jr. supported the ordinance.

The "no" votes on suspension of rules were cast by Councilmen H. A. Tullis, Samuel B. Webber and George E. Willsaw. They contended principally that they felt some provisions of the ordinance required further study, indicating that their votes were more of a delaying action to allow that study rather than outright opposition to the legislation.

AT LEAST FOUR favorable votes are required to enact legislation over the three-meeting route. So the legislation will "stay alive" if it receives four favorable votes again Monday night. But if a single councilman switches to the opposition, the legislation will be dead.

The principal question still remains: Will Council schedule a special session by Dec. 31 to give the ordinance third reading?

The ordinance allows conviction on a gambling charge for mere possession of a gambling device, such as a numbers slip or any other lottery ticket. It was proposed in mid-November by Police Chief Americo Radeschi and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper, who said that under present laws an officer must nab a numbers writer and his patron in the actual exchange of slips and money to establish a case that will stand up in court.

At least four other pieces of legislation are scheduled for presentation.

COUNCIL WILL consider an ordinance granting a franchise for the East End bus line to Donald W. Barnes and John R. Campbell, operators of Tri-State Transit Co. The legislation was held up at the meeting Dec. 7 after councilmen agreed to investigate a requirement for higher property damage insurance for the company.

As presented, the ordinance requires $10,000 property damage. Several councilmen said they feel the coverage should be $20,000 or $25,000.

Cumberland's Police Chief In Sheriff's Bid

A new Cumberland policeman is the first to officially throw his hat into the political ring in Hancock County for the May 10 primary.

Chief Joseph Manypenny filed Friday in the Hancock County Courthouse as a Democratic candidate for sheriff.

Mayor Fred P. Lawrence, who presided, explained that East Liverpool is interested in an overall development program, but its most pressing need is housing loans for the 160 families that will be displaced in 1960 by construction of the California Hollow - West End freeway.

Low cost housing is only one of many phases of an urban renewal program, Perry explained. The federal government's interest centers mainly on assisting communities in making overall improvements that will benefit all its citizens, rather than emphasizing one phase like low cost housing, Perry explained.

But, he added, liberalized mortgage loans for persons displaced by the freeway could be set up as one of the first phases of an urban renewal program.

In urban renewal, sweeping changes are made in a community's face, as in the Pittsburgh Renaissance. It can include razing of slum areas, relocation of their residents and utilization of the former blighted area for industry; development of big off - street parking facilities; a new system of arterial streets, a civic center and many other improvements.

One of the first steps toward qualifying for federal aid is preparation of what the federal government calls a "workable program." In the program, the community seeks to prove to the federal government that it is ready to proceed with long - range work that ultimately will benefit the entire community.

But in presenting a workable program for approval, a community need not prove that all the points are accomplished facts, Perry said. It can officially adopt a "timetable" promising the government that certain requirements such as building and health codes will be met by a specified deadline, he added.

The 7 points required in a workable program, Perry said, are:

1. Sound local housing and health codes.

Federal Help Plans Told For Dispossessed

2 Representatives Of U.S. Agencies Heard By City Delegations

Federal assistance programs are set up in such a way that East Liverpool is more likely to qualify for liberal mortgage loans for families displaced by a new freeway if it makes that goal one phase of a general urban renewal program.

That impression was left with 14 city officials, officials - elect and civic leaders when they conferred for 90 minutes at City Hall Friday with two top officials of the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, the bureau that controls the allocation of community grants.

The federal agency was represented by Ben T. Perry III of the Washington office and Richard Bourbon of the regional office at Chicago.

Mayor Fred P. Lawrence, who presided, explained that East Liverpool is interested in an overall development program, but its most pressing need is housing loans for the 160 families that will be displaced in 1960 by construction of the California Hollow - West End freeway.

West Allies Open Talks At Summit

Start Drafting Of Plans To Be Laid Before Khrushchev

PARIS (AP) — President Eisenhower today urged French President Charles de Gaulle to give ground in his opposition to integrating France's military forces with those of its Western allies.

This was confirmed by authoritative sources after Eisenhower and De Gaulle met for 55 minutes following the opening session of a three-day Western summit meeting.

Eisenhower was reported to have supported Secretary of State Christian A. Herter earlier this week told the 15-nation NATO alliance ministerial meeting that an integrated European defense system was the basis on which the United States keeps troops on the Continent.

De Gaulle's reaction was not outlined. Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty, however, described the De Gaulle-Eisenhower talks as "very frank and friendly." He said they might get together again this weekend.

Earlier, De Gaulle, Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer opened their summit meeting in an agreement that an East-West summit session should be held.

Their talks ranged over hopes for unifying Germany and the question of divided Berlin as well as East-West negotiations on nuclear disarmament.

The four leaders took up the drafting of specific negotiating proposals to be laid before Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at an East-West summit meeting next year.

A working group of diplomats from the four nations is expected to be set up to polish these proposals and to iron out differences.

In their meeting in De Gaulle's office, Eisenhower and the French President also took up Algeria, another sore point in relations between the two countries.

France is unhappy because the United States abstained recently in the United Nations on a resolution — opposed by Paris — urging the French and Algerian rebels to negotiate.

France also feels the United States should have given stronger support to De Gaulle's plan to give Algeria the right of self-determination after peace is restored in that North African territory.

Later they took up a communique Eisenhower signed in Tunis on his visit to Tunisia two days ago.

In the communique Eisenhower and Tunisian President Habib Bouguiba agreed the continued nationalist rebellion against France in Algeria constitutes a disturbing element in the world situation. The French consider this was stepping on their toes on an issue which they regard as their own affair.

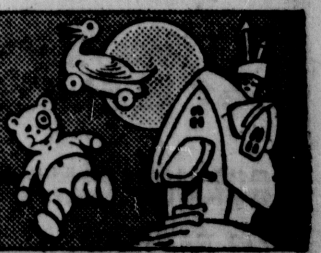

The main issue between the two leaders, however, is the French attitude within the NATO alliance.

De Gaulle opposes the incorporation of French forces in NATO. Eisenhower is the obvious spokesman for the 14 NATO allies of France, all of whom are in favor of defense integration.

Eisenhower and De Gaulle started their private meeting after two hours and 12 minutes of four-power conversations at Elysee Palace, which included Adenauer and Macmillan.

The four resume their talks this afternoon, accompanied by their

Old Speeding Case Settled With $10 Fine

Municipal Judge George L. Brokaw fined a North Side motorist $10 and costs Friday afternoon, ruling, in effect, that prevailing conditions on Thanksgiving Eve did not permit a speed of 70 miles an hour on the East Liverpool-Wellsville "super" road.

Edward M. Gottlieb, 547 Blackmore St., drew the penalty after Judge Brokaw found him guilty of the speeding charge filed Nov. 25 by the State Highway Patrol.

The case had been continued since Nov. 27 to permit Gottlieb to return from school and hear the testimony of Patrolman E. D. Wain regarding conditions prevailing on the road at the time of the arrest.

Gottlieb, through his counsel, Atty. Ben H. Berman, admitted driving 65 miles an hour but asked the court to decide if it was a violation of the state's prima facie speed law which permits an auto to be driven at virtually any "reasonable and proper" speed based on prevailing conditions.

Judge Brokaw had entered a not guilty plea for Gottlieb after Atty. Berman told the court his client "didn't know how to plead."

Prima facie is a legal term defined literally as "first appears" and questions whether evidence is sufficient to raise a presumption of fact.

Meanwhile, another North Side man, accused of drunken driving for the third time in five years and also charged with leaving the scene of an accident, won a continuance until Tuesday morning.

A hearing for Raymond Adkins, 32, of 1066 Huston Ave. was postponed at the request of his counsel, Atty. George Aronson. He posted a $1,200 property bond.

Adkins was arrested early Thursday at his garage after a hit-skip collision on Bradshaw Ave. that damaged three autos.

Police said the mishap was witnessed by Patrolman Howard Bosworth, who said Adkins did not stop at the scene of the crash at 12:57 a. m. Thursday. He was arrested four minutes later, police said.

A Canton motorist, arrested early today on Harvey Ave., for drunken driving entered a guilty plea when arraigned before Judge Brokaw.

Manuel Richard Perry was fined $300 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail. His operator's permit also was suspended for six months.

Police arrested Perry shortly before 3 a. m. on Harvey Ave. Patrolman S. E. Hayes said Perry almost missed the curve at Harvey Ave. and Elizabeth St. and then drove back and forth across the center line.

Ralph W. Yetter, 26-D Midland Heights, forfeited a $16 bond on a reckless driving charge. He was cited at 1:21 a. m. today on Pennsylvania Ave.

Franklin D. Jarvis of Windham, cited Friday night by the State Highway Patrol for passing at an intersection on Route 30, posted a $16 bond for a hearing Monday.

Car-Train Crash Fatal

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—Frederick E. Black, 33, of Portland, Ind., was killed near here Friday night when the car in which he was riding was struck by a train, officials said. Driver of the car, Alvin Miller, 22, also of Portland, was listed in critical condition at a Lima Hospital. The train crew said the car did not slow when it came to the crossing.

Santa and the ICE KING

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

Synopsis: Onik and Santa have finally found the Ice King, busily grinding out harsh winter storms from his fearful ice castle. When Santa explained that he and Onik had come as friends, the Ice King stopped his work and suddenly burst into tears.

CHAPTER TWELVE

Onik marvelled to see the Ice King cry. Even the King's tears were made of ice. They rained from his cheeks and clattered to the floor like hailstones on a roof.

"What is it? What is the matter?" cried Santa in alarm.

"Nothing," replied the Ice King kicking away the tears. "It's just that you're the first to ever come here and call himself friend."

Then he told Santa how all his life he had lived alone in his frozen castle where not even a servant would live. How no one ever came to call. How he had no friends and everyone in the whole world hated him because he was Winter itself and brought everyone cold and misery.

"But you are wrong!" protested Santa. "Winter has its proper place. Children love snow and animals love to hibernate and even grownups love to sit before their fires on stormy nights."

THE KING'S face brightened.

"Do they really like me?" he asked.

"Of course they do," replied Santa.

"But now," went on Santa sternly, "it is August. For four months the world has waited for spring and summer but still you send your ice and snow and frigid winds. That is wrong. Why do you do it?"

"It's because I am so lonely!" burst out the Ice King. "All winter I can keep busy making storms, but in summertime there's nothing to do but sit and mope. So this year I decided I would just keep on making winter forever and that way I'll always be busy and happy too."

Santa shook his head sadly. "And so the whole world will freeze and starve."

"Who would ever marry me," wailed the lonely Ice King.

The Ice King hung his head and walked away. "I thought since they hated me anyway I might as well be really hateful," he mumbled.

Santa took out his pipe and lit it. For a long while he smoked in silence and then he said, "You must get a wife."

"What?" cried the Ice King turning to stare.

"A wife. You must get a wife to love you and care for you and keep you from being lonely or feeling hateful again."

"A wife!" whispered the Ice King and his eyes softened and he began to smile. Then his face clouded over and he burst out bitterly. "Who would ever marry me?"

"THERE ARE lonely maidens in the world just as there are lonely men," said Santa. "The trick is to get them together. I have in mind for you a beautiful creature whom I happen to know is in a marrying mood."

"Who?" said the Ice King eagerly.

"The Sun Daughter," said Santa. "She dwells in the East where the sun rises each day." He paused and scratched his head. "Ah," he sighed. "If only I had my reindeer back we could travel there in a single day!"

Onik, quiet and awe-struck all this time, now tugged at Santa's sleeve.

"I can get the reindeer," he said.

Santa shook his head. "No, my boy, I turned them loose, you remember, and they are far away now hunting for the summer food they could not find up here."

"I am a good reindeer hunger," Onik bragged. "My father taught me well."

"But even your father has not been able to find any reindeer this summer," said Santa.

"I will not find just any reindeer," insisted Onik. "I will find your reindeer."

"But how can you?" cried Santa. "When I have turned them free?"

"Because," said Onik with a smile, "they have followed you here, all the way."

50 At Midland PTA's Meeting $10 Fines Given 2 Youths Nabbed In Police Chase

About 50 members attended the 1st Street Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday afternoon in the Midland school.

Miss Cora Wickline, teacher, gave the invocation and Mrs. Irene Steinacker, teacher, led in the flag salute and singing of "America."

Mrs. George J. Suznevich, president, presided. Mrs. Pat Kaiser, ways and means committee co-chairman, reported on the recent candy and bake sale. Mrs. Gilbert Liberatore, holiday treats chairman, reported on the distribution to the children next Wednesday at the school. Mrs. Mike Prodonovich, membership chairman, said enrollment has reached 81.

A donation was made to help provide food baskets to needy families sponsored by various Midland organizations for Christmas. Members pledged a contribution to the Midland Dental Clinic and subscribed to the Midland Band Boosters' calendar.

Instead of the annual gift exchange, members brought gifts suitable for children. Over 70 were displayed then taken to the Beaver County Children's Home in New Brighton.

A Christmas program, under the direction of Mrs. Steinacker, included recitations and songs by the third grade classes. It was held on the main floor near the decorated Christmas tree.

Miss Margaret Hogan, principal of the elementary schools, was a guest.

Homeroom mothers were in charge of the tea with Mrs. Darrell Stillwagon and Mrs. Bud Hays hostesses. Miss Ethel Emerick, first grade teacher, furnished the centerpiece of white chrysanthemums decorating the tea table.

Mrs. Clark Bradfield's second grade homeroom mothers will be in charge of the tea at the next meeting Jan. 21 with Mrs. Nick Viakley and Mrs. Adam Hodnick co-chairmen.

Juvenile Grange Holds Yule Event At Frankfort Springs

The Frankfort Springs Juvenile Grange held its Christmas program and meeting Monday evening at the Grange Hall.

A gift exchange was held with gifts presented in a musical chairs game. The program included about 16 Christmas readings, a skit, several vocal duets and group singing of "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing!", "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," "The First Noel and "Joy to the World."

Refreshments were served by Helen Mae Neeley, Carol Harper and Mae Conley, assisted by the subordinate Grange home economics committee with Mrs. Ford Ralston chairman.

During business, with Paul Neeley, master, presiding, William Hamilton and Lynn Hall were re-instated.

Mrs. James Whitehill, matron, discussed plans and projects for the coming year. They include organization of a chorus, a degree team and installing team, "Earn for Ears," to aid deaf children; a spelling bee, and Christmas card scrapbooks to be sent to children in hospitals.

Members were given material to make Santas for the meeting Dec. 28. Mrs. Bruce Hobbs, Beaver County Pomona lecturer, reported on the Hookstown meeting and Mrs. Whitehill reported on the officers training meeting at Center Grange.

Mrs. Hobbs will attend the leaders' conference for Pomona lecturers, masters, deputies and juvenile deputies this week at Pennsylvania State University.

YMCA Stamp Club Sets Election For January

Plans for election of officers were discussed at a meeting of the YMCA Stamp Club Friday night at the Y.

ATHENS (AP)—Two Russian monks, aged 72 and 77, burned to death Friday in their cells at the Russian monastery of Stavronikita, on Mt. Athos southeast of Salonika.

2 Youths Arrested In Assault Case

NEW CUMBERLAND — Two local youths were scheduled for hearings today before Squire John D. Herron on charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

Tom Allen and Harry Mack, both about 20, were arrested by Police Chief Joseph Manypenny at 7 last night on a warrant signed by Samuel Minesinger of Chester St., victim of the beating.

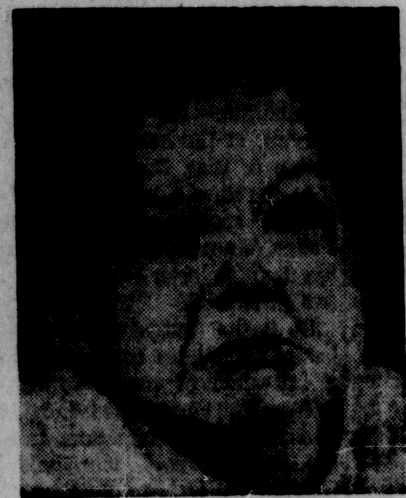

Manypenny said the two youths walked into the Pine Glen Restaurant Friday at 10:30 a. m. and beat up Minesinger, the owner. Minesinger was treated by a local physician for facial injuries.

The chief said the trouble apparently originated in a confectionery owned by Minesinger although it had "been brewing for a long time."

During the scuffle, several booths in the restaurant were upset but damage was minor, authorities said. Manypenny filed charges of disorderly conduct before Mayor Albert Fuccy.

Truck Driver Hurt

LISBON — William Townsend, 54, of Leetonia was treated at Salem City Hospital Friday night after his 1941 truck rammed an embankment along McCracken Rd. about 5 miles south of Salem at 8:30 p. m. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon for driving left of center.

Housing Aid

2. A general "master plan" for community development.

3. Basic analysis of residential neighborhoods, seeking out particularly the blighted areas or the ones that may become substandard in years to come.

4. An effective administrative organization to operate the program and co-ordinate local activity.

5. The financial capacity to complete the program, including bond issues and credit allowed by the federal government for new community facilities such as schools and highways.

6. Rehousing of families that will be displaced by the program.

7. Community-wide citizen co-operation and support, accomplished by educating the public on the need for a better community.

The federal agency does not seek to dictate to communities what they should promise, but it wants "evidence of good faith," Perry said. For instance, the government seeks to develop projects that will benefit the entire community, not just certification for low cost loans for individual homes or multiple-unit dwellings, he said.

In a Title I Project for slum clearance, the city and the federal government split the cost 50-50 in the planning stage, then the federal government pays two-thirds of the remainder, Perry said. But a city can receive credit for some of the new community improvements it has made, which means that in some cases there is no direct cost to the city for its share of the federally-financed program, he said.

In drafting a workable program to qualify itself for federal aid, a community has a better chance of ultimate success if it employs one of the new concerns specializing in community planning, Perry said. The same rule applies to

A Farm Boy From Kansas

One small incident in President Eisenhower's long journey for peace winks brightly in the impressive mass of evidence that his trip was worth the great effort it required.

He had gone to see the Taj Mahal with Prime Minister Nehru. He said he had dreamed of seeing it when he was a Kansas farm boy. He said it was perfect.

We do not suppose many Indians would know why being a Kansas farm boy had any special importance; probably Prime Minister Nehru didn't know.

And among the millions who saw President Eisenhower in India and his other stops in Asia there may have been no one at all who could understand why farm boys in the United States would dream of seeing the Taj Mahal. Or the Great Pyramids. Or the Arc de Triomphe in Paris. Or the Coliseum in Rome.

They do not dream of seeing a building in America.

AMERICANS DREAM of seeing everything there is to see in a wide world that keeps getting wider as they learn more about it. That is why they are famous as tourists. That is why they have sent emissaries of good will to every part of the world where they would be received. That is why missionaries from the United States have been sent out to every corner of the earth.

Millions of "farm boys from Kansas" have dreamed of things they would see some day as travelers — not conquerors, not looters, not overlords — just as tourists enjoying a world made safe by brotherhood.

A great deal of time is being wasted, along with a great deal of worry, on speculations about the impact of President Eisenhower's journey. All the speculations run to the same effect — that Mr. Eisenhower's good intentions may backfire.

The hard-bitten cynics of international relations warn that the good will he expressed in generalities may be interpreted by those who heard him as promises of material aid which he cannot fulfill.

They explain that he has been loosely and dangerously generous in his point of view about people and places where the struggle for survival is so intense that no one can afford to drop his guard.

President Eisenhower, they fear, may have put the United States in a position where so much will be expected of it that it cannot possibly come up to expectations.

THE OPEN-HANDED good neighborliness of the American president, they warn, may have struck listeners as either dreaminess or duplicity. If he believed it, they say, he would be looked at askance by realists. And if he didn't believe it, he would be guilty of pulling their legs.

These fears are felt and expressed. President Eisenhower presumably knows about them. He is not naive. He can still dream, but he knows his dream of world peace is today the only reality. Everything else has become unthinkable.

He is sharing his dream with all the people who dare to believe in it. They are not the politicians, nor the generals, nor the scholars. They are this world's farm boys and girls from Kansas, under all the names they bear, under all the colors of their skins, all the flags their governments fly and all the religions they believe in.

There are more farm boys and girls from Kansas in this world than any other kind. They recognize one another on sight. We think they recognized one of their own when they saw Dwight Eisenhower and heard what he had to say — just a message of good will.

We think that explains the tremendous crowds and the wild enthusiasm. We think good will is the only talking left for statesmen in the mid-20th century.

ers fail to come up with the understandable answers in explaining school methods or other things related to the pupil and his learning process.

Fortunately, however, there has been an effort made by most instructors to clarify and explain school matters despite the increasing complexity of educational policy and teaching procedures.

Expanding on Mr. Van Horne's article, if we may, there should be a similar set of standards for parents to meet, not only in communicating with the schools, but in properly playing their own role in the child's education.

If teachers have a "jargon," so do parents who are quite willing to shrug off a problem with a caustic phrase or unfounded generalization about teachers or the school system.

If teachers — educated, experienced and with a sense of professional accountability — concede they are not perfect, then parents, who often tackle parenthood rather informally and with varying degrees of responsibility, should reappraise themselves as "professionals" at home.

writer. He had revealed secrets no police department and no public investigation could wring out of any gangland associate who took his responsibilities seriously.

While plans for Touhy's assassination were being put into effect, the United States was hearing the defense summary in the mass conspiracy trial of the so-called Apalachin defendants in New York City—the men who showed up as guests of the late Joseph Barbara on Nov. 14, 1957.

Their lawyers all said the same thing in effect. The grand jury hearing the case, the prosecutors, the courts, the government had no right to try to get information that might have bearings on the charge of criminal conspiracy against their clients. They would never talk.

If any reminder were needed that silence is the Golden Rule of people who understand how to protect one another against charges of wrong-doing, the Touhy murder provided it. His execution was ordered by the court that outranks every court in the United States because its decisions are final and fatal.

army kitchen the room now used for board meetings. The directors will hereafter meet in army tanks stationed around the offices.

BIG DRUG FIRMS in Senate probe are asking Kefauver for something to relieve headaches. Our druggist asks, "What's all the squawking about the price of pills? You get a choice of colors, don't you?"

Credit cards are now so good in Cuba you can get "Yank Go Home" greeting with no money down.

Massachusetts Tech professor tells FCC hearing he thinks mayhem on the TV is good for kids and may help them become good citizens. Then how about a school or college course in advanced mugging, with professors demonstrating criminal routines? With the school library being used three nights a week for "rumblers"?

With millions being spent to get the Voice of America to far countries, Americans themselves are being kept from anything but trivial airwave coverage of vital issues, as, for example, recent U.N. effort to arouse the world to Hungary's plight. Only one radio station, a New York municipal one, bothered to give coverage. All the big TV stations dismissed it with minimum reference.

The Power Of Faith

Labor Baron Era Now Ending

By Victor Riesel

Mark well the beginning of the passing of John Llewellyn Lewis for it marks the beginning of the end of all barons of labor. Mr. Lewis bowed not to the grayness of age but to the redness of the tape of the new reform law. It cuts deeply and bleeds the power of the former of one-man leadership of giant unions.

Victor Riesel

Mr. Lewis recognized that his era had passed when he read the small type in the law which made him answerable to some Labor Department clerk. Lewis and men like him no longer can operate as they did by unanimous fiat which would move hundreds of thousands of men into action.

John L. who spoke of himself in the third person as "Mr. Lewis" was the Mine Workers Union and the union was "Mr. Lewis."

He has made the decisions ever since 1921 when in Denver he was an unknown and ran against AFL president Samuel Gompers.

MR. LEWIS did not expect to win. But he expected that his daring to challenge the other giant would make him world famous. It did.

Now, almost 40 years later, the new reform law says that "Mr. Lewis," mover of millions, controller of a 50-million-dollar treasury and one of the most powerful banks in Washington, must yield his power to the rank and file.

He must do this by giving the miners the right to vote in their own union—something most of them haven't had since the days "Mr. Lewis" defeated the powerful Socialist spokesman in the splintered United Mine Workers of old.

To tie the union together and keep it a disciplined force, "Mr. Lewis" put most of the union's 29 districts under his personal receivership decades ago. He named the district officers. He virtually cast their votes single handed at each constitutional convention. Thus, though it is little known, "Mr. Lewis" always controlled directly more than 75 per cent of the miners' rank-and-file vote.

At least 18 of the 29 districts the days of Calvin Coolidge. And when "Mr. Lewis" launched his famous catchall District 50, he put this energetic little labor federation under his brother Denny.

NOW MR. LEWIS must give all this up. That's what Title Three of the Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act of 1959 says quite plainly.

There is more than yielding this control. The miners' chief must file regular reports down to the last nickel spent by his trusted districts. To him this is an indignity.

Some of us saw him walk with deliberate funeral pace down the long San Francisco AFL convention auditorium in 1947, while hundreds of delegates watched in truly awed silence.

We knew he'd never submerge his power to new laws. That day he moved regally to the podium and told the delegates not to "amite the ox." They could not force him to recognize the then new Taft-Hartley law. He didn't.

But the 1959 law gives him no choice. It says every labor organization must file a list of its trusteeships, along with the "date the trusteeship was established; a detailed report of reason or reasons why the trusteeship was established; a statement of the extent to which members of the organization under trusteeship have any part in selecting delegates to represent them at union conventions or at other policy-making meetings; a statement of the extent to which members of the trusteeship organization take part in electing the officers of the labor organization which has assumed the trusteeship; a complete account of the financial status of the trusteeship organization of the time the trusteeship went into effect."

We can all remember the loud hosannas that arose from what Mr. Truman calls the "hot-house liberals" when the City of Memphis decided to build its own electric plant. This meant the collapse of the Dixon-Yates plan to build a plant with investor-owned capital.

Evil had been overthrown! The Eisenhower administration had been embarrassed. Now the people of the Memphis region, threatened by a capitalistic ogre, were rescued and were to have free—that is, almost free—stuff to light their homes and cook their cat-fish!

A publicly owned and operated paradise was to surround them! With extra voltage to help out that larger paradise, the TVA.

The Dixon-Yates plant was intended to supply some kilowatts for the Atomic Energy Commission. Progress had been made in the plans when the President cancelled the contract.

Later, when the United States failed to pay for what had been spent by Dixon-Yates, it was sued in the courts and a million dollars was recovered. This million, however, is a small item compared with the tax revenues which would have been received from a Dixon-Yates plant if it had been built—revenues for Uncle Sam and other governmental units.

Now an embarrassed city administration in Memphis is having to admit the necessity of raising rates to meet the cost of the experiment in socialized power. The amount of increase is estimated to be 20 per cent.

This embarrassment of the Memphis city government is the subject of gleeful digs by newspapers in Arkansas, where the Dixon-Yates plant was to have been built. It will be remembered that Arkansas' Sen. Fulbright fought hard in Congress for the Dixon-Yates plan.

One Arkansas newspaper has had this to say:

"In the Dixon-Yates argument we can recall diatribes in Memphis newspapers against the bugaboo of private power. We remember well the many public love notes the press wrote to TVA and its 'realistic' yardstick showing the cost of manufacture and distribution of electricity.

"We remember heated Memphis newspaper editorials claiming that TVA plays its own way and still provides cheap power. The hint by

NO LONGER will union chiefs be able to suspend opposition leaders and take their locals from them—not for more than 18 months under the law. No longer will there be possible the ouster of opposition candidates from membership. No longer will national chiefs be able to shift large sums of money from one area to another or deprive locals of their share of the finances.

Thus, when the law's enforcement really starts rolling, so will the opposition inside each national labor organization.

To Mr. Lewis at 80 it was not so much a wearying prospect as a boring one. So he decided to be caretaker for a bit and then move on. Others will follow. They have passed through one era and are going out the other.

anyone that public tax money was being used to make up deficits in the TVA budget drew great editorial ire.

"Well, if municipally produced power in Memphis now costs consumers 20 per cent more than TVA rates, it clearly shows that TVA rates were 20 per cent below cost. In the TVA days, somebody was paying 20 per cent of Memphis' light bills for them.

"We other taxpayers are still paying 20 per cent or more of the power bills for the rest of the TVA empire but at least we've got Memphis off our backs."

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — More than 25 miles of new highway were graded in Columbiana County and 19 miles were surfaced with concrete during 1929.

Dr. R. T. Holzback of Salem was named to succeed Dr. J. A. Fraser of East Liverpool as president of the Columbiana County Medical Society.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Pottery Savings & Loan Co. observed its 50th anniversary at a banquet in the East Liverpool County Club.

The Wellsville Tigers defeated invading Midland, 35-27, in a basketball game.

TEN YEARS AGO — Newly-installed tower chimneys at the Second Presbyterian Church were presented formally to the congregation.

Pupils of MacDonald School donated baskets of food to 24 needy Wellsville families.

Robert W. McMichael, a graduate of East Liverpool High School and nephew of Mrs. Helen L. Ferber of Vine St., was appointed an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Thirty-one states now have boat numbering laws in line with the Federal Boating Act of 1958. After April 1, 1960, the U. S. Coast Guard will number every boat of more than 10-horsepower operating on navigable waters of the United States.

Censorship In Air

By David Lawrence

More Federal Control Threatens Radio, TV

Television and the press have been performing an extraordinary service in bringing so quickly to the American people the pictures of President Eisenhower's trip abroad. No other generation of Americans has been able to get so promptly a visual presentation of events of such international importance.

There is something else involved—the alertness of private enterprise. The competition in the press and among broadcasting companies—television as well as radio—inspired the news managers who did the planning weeks ahead of time.

Yet today there is talk of government control of the mediums of expression. There are champions of government ownership of a radio network and advocates of government dictation on how programs on public affairs, educational subjects and everything else, including the most highly controversial questions, shall be handled by TV and radio.

THE CONCEPT is advanced that the government owns the air waves and hence should control what goes out over them.

It's the same old argument that, because the government owns the waters and its dams, it must own electric power plants or, that because the government can commandeer the natural resources of the nation, it should go into the oil business or the coal business just as the Communist governments do.

Does the government of the United States own all the air, or is this something reserved to the people? Originally, when radio came into being, it was discovered that there would be a collision of broadcasts on the air waves unless the available channels were allotted.

The government's role was that of a traffic cop. It set out to regulate the transmission of broadcasts through the issuance of licenses and the allocation of channels. Nobody thought at the time that this covered the prerogatives of ownership. Certainly the traffic departments of the states and cities do not have to own all the autos and trucks whose movements they regulate in order to avoid collisions and other accidents.

Unfortunately, the Supreme Court of the United States swallowed the so-called "liberal" doctrine — which in reality, if followed to its logical conclusion, often becomes totalitarian—and began issuing rulings that indicated wider and wider governmental powers over radio stations.

Instead of constraining the language of the federal law as meaning control over mechanical conflicts in the air, the executive agencies concerned were told to regulate radio licenses on a broader basis.

The clause in the law covering "public interest, convenience and necessity" was interpreted to mean that the federal government has the power to go into program quality, qualifications of owners and sundry other questions that are never raised when government contracts are let in other fields.

RECENT AGITATION over quiz shows and scandals now seems to have opened the way for the government ownership school to call for the exercise of more federal authority.

There are suggestions, for instance, that the government should go into the field of education by setting up broadcasting stations with government money.

Some of the pressure groups which have been trying to get more and more federal funds for schools claims to be opposed to federal control of the educational systems of the country but nevertheless are lined up in favor of the extension of federal governmental authority to carry on various "educational" programs over TV and radio.

There is already law enough to punish fraud and to stop misrepresentation or misleading advertising. If the end result of the recent TV scandals is to take away from private enterprise the initiative stimulated by American competition, then the cure will prove much worse than the disease.

The political consequences of such a debacle and its effect on the American system of government could be grave.

If any administration in Washington really controlled the air waves and could dictate what was done with them, the word "educational" could easily acquire the connotation given by a jury verdict recently with respect to political broadcasts paid for out of union dues.

Despite the provision in the Taft-Hartley Act that a union may not use its general funds for political contributions, the union was upheld in its contention that its partisan telecasts, heard by the public, during the 1954 election campaigns in Michigan were merely a means of "educating" its members.

CONGRESS has already interfered with the right of radio and television, as mediums of expression, to use their own news judgment as protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. Thus, laws have been passed ordering that "equal time" be afforded to all candidates for a public office, irrespective of whether there is news or interest among listeners in the boring words of some of the candidates.

There is no surer way of ruining any medium of communication than to give the government any power to tell a private enterprise how to deal with political speeches or any other program. Censorship of the theater or of books is resented by many so-called "liberals," but somehow there is a strange readiness to accept censorship of TV and radio.

Sheep Came Lately

By Truman Twill

Something I think about every Christmas is the flocks of the shepherds were watching on the hills above Bethlehem on the night of the Nativity.

We picture them as flocks of sheep, just as we picture the appearance of the people in terms of what is familiar to us now.

But as far as I have been able to learn in a lifetime of reading about the matter, there is no reason to believe there were sheep in the Holy Land at that time that there were cows.

What the shepherds were watching by night was flocks of animals resembling goats. These were the ancestors of the sheep we have now. Some people believe that goats, which are the main reliance to this day of the inhabitants of that sparsely vegetated part of the world may have been the only animals present.

Goats were valued not only for the milk they yielded but for their hair. To this day, goats are commonplace in the Holy Land for this reason. Sheep, which were developed farther north in colder climates, are rare in the Middle East.

At Christmas, I think about this, because in every picturization of the scene that shows what might have been seen there are animals resembling present-day sheep, with white fleeces and bodies proportioned like the bodies of sheep.

There is no biological justification for this deduction. For one thing, it is unlikely that even the ancestors of goats would have been white in color; they almost certainly would not have been proportioned like sheep. They would have been stringy, long-legged creatures, probably brown in color, with angular heads and horns. Their young would have been not unattractive in appearance, but in no way would they have resembled fleecy, white lambs.

It is only a detail, but an interesting one. Another is the detail of climate. Cyclical storms with abundant snowfall are to be expected in Palestine during the winter months. Aside from the moderating influence of the Mediterranean, the climate is as inclement as it is in the central part of the United States.

This detail of the picturization of Christendom's Great Event comes to mind when snow covers the figures in the creches.

What seems to be sacrilege of a sacred scene actually is a more accurate representation than a creche would be with neither snow nor rain. Ideally, a creche always would represent a stable, dry and sheltered, as seen through an opening, with the goats huddled miserably outside and the people inside.

A thing like this would occur only to a weekend farmer with a flock of sheep around the place for company. Whenever the Christmas cards start coming, through, with their representations of the Holy Scene, a modern shepherd wonders.

The sheep at our place are Cheviots. They are short-legged, with white hair on their faces and legs, fine white wool everywhere else. They are of recent origin, as are all breeds of domesticated sheep. None of the current breeds look like their ancestors, which resembled goats. It's something to think about at Christmas time besides what to buy for people who have everything.

The Once Over

The Revolutionist chief of Cuban banking system has demanded that American business institutions in the country take in military men and train them in the operation of business. Can't you fancy the order?

Dear Sir: I am enclosing a list of soldiers and sailors and ask you to take them into your business, showing them all the ropes. The hours do not matter so long as you quit early each day and let my boys take charge.

I called for volunteers for this work, since business is tough all over and offers no scuttlery, dice games, canteen shows, furloughs and general camp fun. Doing business in Cuba calls for bravery and these men have it.

I think you will welcome this news. It will relieve you of much work. In fact you won't have to do much more than salute, do KP duty and have weekly inoculations. The bookkeeping, company statements, dividends, etc., will be handled by some of the best soldiers who ever attended directors' meetings in uniforms and with side arms.

Give me no back talk. You should like it as you can relax. If you are needed to do anything you will be notified by bugle call.

Yours truly

Hancock Judge Wins Endorsement Of Bar

Judge J. Harold Brennan, who presides in the First Judicial Circuit of Hancock, Ohio and Brooke Counties, has been endorsed for reelection at the May 10 primaries by the Ohio County Bar Association.

The association also recommended Judge J. P. O'Brien for reelection in the First Judicial Circuit.

The Ohio County group said a copy of the resolution will be sent to the Hancock County Bar Association, which is expected to recommend reelection for the two jurists at a dinner meeting Jan. 12.

Until now, the two judges — who are natives of Wheeling and together have served more than 62 years on the bench — had never been required to enter primary elections because party conventions were held for nominating purposes.

Midnight Mass Will Be Held By Catholics

Midnight Solemn High Masses will be sung at the Catholic Churches of the area Thursday in the traditional observance of Christmas.

The services are planned at two East Liverpool churches and those at Wellsville and Chester.

At St. Aloysius church, the celebrant will be Fr. Carl A. Nicolay, pastor; deacon, Fr. Thomas G. Mulhearn, an assistant, and sub-deacon, Fr. Robert Gibas, seminarian from Mt. St. Mary's of the West at Cincinnati.

Fr. John Nentwick, also a seminarian from the parish, will be master of ceremonies.

During the offertory, the choir under the direction of Fr. Anthony M. Esposito, also an assistant, will chant "Adeste Fideles."

At the approach of the most solemn part of the Mass, the receiving of Christ in Holy Communion, various motets will be sung, including "Jesu Redemptor Omnium" (Ravennello); "O, Esca Viatorum" (Jsaak); "Electa Mea" (Verhelst) and "Magnificat" (Grassi).

At the response to the intonation to the "Missa Est" (Picchi), "Deo Gratias" will be sung, followed by "Jubilante Deo." The recessional will be "Joy to the World."

Mrs. James O'Reilly will be organist.

Prior to the Midnight Mass, the Male Choir will pay tribute to the Christ Child with hymns and carols.

Among the selections will be "O, Holy Night" with hymns by O'Reilly as soloist. The hymns will conclude with "Gesu Bambino" (Yon).

Cardinal Mercier General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will provide an escort for the clergy from the rectory to the church for the midnight Mass. The procession also is scheduled to include altar boys and choir boys.

The Senior and Junior Altar Boys will be servers for the Mass.

Masses for Christmas Day will be said at 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 11:15 a. m. High Masses will be sung at 8 and 11. The choir will sing for the Mass at 10 and Christmas music will be played for all the other Masses.

Confessions will be heard Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p. m., Wednesday, 3:30 to 5 and 7:30 to 9 p. m., and Thursday, 3:30 to 5 p. m. No Confessions will be heard Tuesday or Dec. 26.

Members of the Knights of Columbus, will receive Holy Communion in a group Sunday during the 7:30 a. m. Mass, when the fourth Sunday of Advent will be observed.

Other Masses will be said at 6, 9:15, 10:30 a. m. and noon.

Confessions will be heard today from 3:30 to 5 and 7:30 to 9 p. m. Fr. Lambert Andrews will be celebrant for the Midnight Mass at St. Ann church in East End.

The Adult Choir, under the direction of Vincent Maola, will sing during the Mass and also the 10 a. m. Mass Christmas Day. Miss Kay Hocking is organist.

A Mass at 8 will also be said Christmas morning.

Confessions will be heard Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and nights and also on Thursday afternoon.

The fourth Sunday of Advent will be observed tomorrow during the 8 and 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. Masses. Confessions will be heard at 3:30 and 7 p. m. today.

Prior to the Midnight Mass at the Immaculate Conception Church at Wellsville, a pageant will be presented by the Girls Choir and the Men's Choir.

Fr. John Lyons will be celebrant at the Midnight Mass.

Masses on Christmas Day will be said at 8, 9:30 and 11 a. m. Confessions will be heard Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7:30 to 9 and Thursday from 10 to 11 a. m. and 3:30 to 5 and 7:30 to 9 p. m.

The fourth Sunday of Advent will be observed Sunday during the 8, 9:30 and 11 a. m. Masses with Fr. Lyons as the celebrant.

Confessions will be heard today from 3:30 to 5 and 7:30 to 9 p. m. For the midnight Solemn High Mass Christmas Eve at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church at Chester, Fr. Eugene Jacobs will be the celebrant.

Preceding the Mass at 11:30 carols will be sung by the Senior Choir, under the direction of William Bourne.

Children of congregation will sing at the 8 and 8:30 a. m. Masses Christmas Day.

Confessions will be heard Tuesday and Wednesday from 4 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 8 p. m.

The fourth Sunday after Advent will be observed during the 8 and 10 a. m. Masses tomorrow.

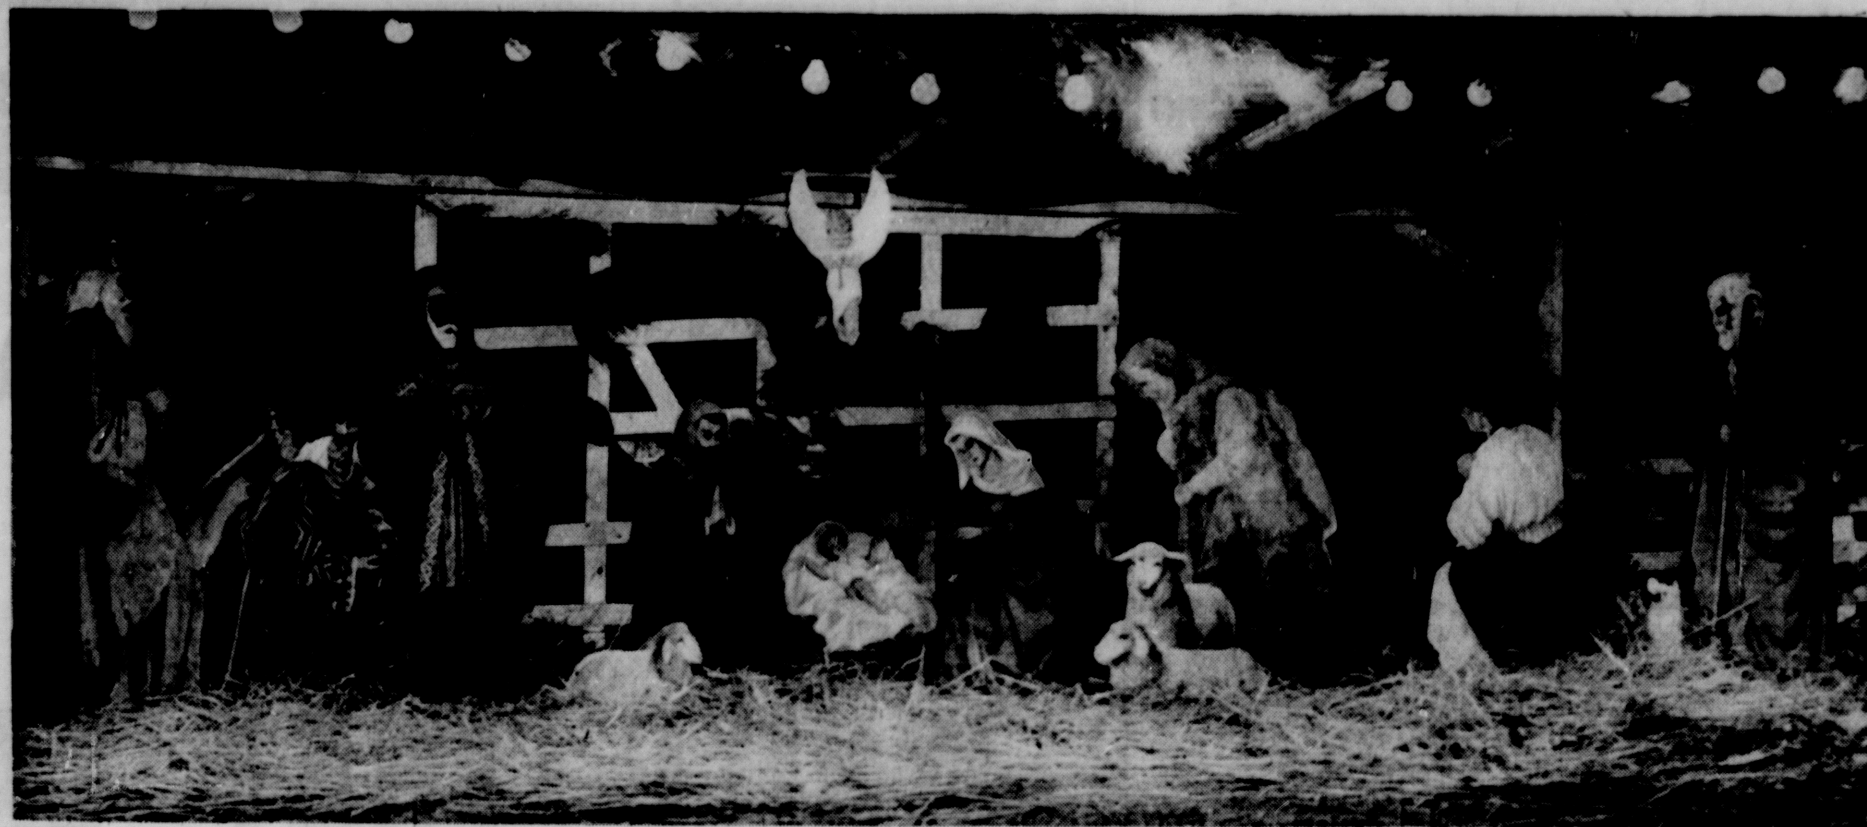

Confessions will be heard today from 4 to 4:30 and 7 to 7:30 p. m. Parishioners were reminded that they may abstain from eating meat Wednesday instead of Christmas Eve, under a decree of Pope John.

NATIVITY SCENE. A striking representation of the Christ child and worshippers in the stable at Bethlehem is part of the holiday decorations in Chester during the Christmas season. A project of the Chester Lions Club, it is located adjacent to the City Hall at Carolina Ave. and 5th St. and includes cutout pictures on plywood shapes, all beneath canvas. Members completed the scene, flanked by two trees, Wednesday night.

Yule Pageant, Drama Slated

Two performances will highlight the Christmas program at the First Christian Church at Chester Sunday evening.

The first performance at 6 will be a pageant with music, "Carols are Kind," with Mrs. Harry Shaw as director and Mrs. Elmer Kell as the pianist. Mrs. Donald Bond and Mrs. James Killian are in charge of the evening program.

Members of the Angelus Choir will be carolers.

The second performance at 7:30 will be a three-act drama, "The Christmas Story," portraying the complete story of the Savior, from the appearance of the Angel Gabriel to Mary, Elizabeth and Zacharias, through the visit of the Wise Men following the Birth of Jesus.

Irma Boggs will be narrator; Erma Myers, Lynn Murray, Janet Bryan and Harold Staley will be soloists and Ellen Kell, pianist.

At the 9:45 a. m. service the Rev. Earliss Gleaton will preach on "Events in the Origin of Christmas."

Special music will include an anthem, "Stars Over Bethlehem" (Stair), and a sextet, "Come to the Stable With Jesus" (O'Hara), by Mrs. Hubert Myers, Mrs. Paul Murray, Mrs. Donald Murray, Mrs. Gleaton and Misses Beverly Bickerstaff and Thea McSwegin.

Job Benefits To End For 35 From District

An estimated 35 area residents will be affected when the state's extended benefit program for the jobless ends officially on Saturday, Dec. 26.

The final week for filing applications for extended unemployment compensation will end on Dec. 26, a spokesman for the local office of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation said.

The program dates back to July 23, 1958, effective date of the new law which provided extended benefits up to a maximum of 13 additional weeks. The extension along with the 26 weeks authorized under the basic law gave the eligible claimants a potential maximum of 39 weeks of benefits.

Some 8,000 Ohioans will be affected by the change, a spokesman for the state agency said.

Warren Bank Robber To Be Arraigned Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Jimmy Lee Bush, charged with a $500 Warren, Ohio, bank robbery, will be arraigned before a U. S. commissioner in Manhattan today.

The 24-year-old Bush, of Owens Cross Roads, Ala., turned himself in to the FBI Friday.

Mrs. Irene Falkner, a teller at the Second National Bank in Warren, identified Bush from a police photograph. She said he was the robber who handed her a penciled note Dec. 11 which said:

"This is a stickup, $500 in small bills. Have gun, will shoot."

She handed over a stack of 20-dollar bills.

The FBI traced Bush through a suitcase he dropped as he fled the bank. He had been selling match book advertising in Ohio.

Sen. Humphrey Raps U.S. Money Policies

MERRILL, Wis. (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) assailed the administration's money policy Friday calling it "a benefit for the big banks, insurance companies and other lending institutions."

He is making another two-day trip in Wisconsin, apparently to strengthen his possible bid for presidential delegates to the National Democratic Convention. He talked Friday at Ashland, Rhinelander, Marathon and Merrill and planned additional speeches in Madison and other southern Wisconsin cities today.

"The administration's tight money policy," he said, "only makes it tight for you and me."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove beer stains from washable garments?

A. These can usually be removed by the usual laundering methods. A cloth dipped into soapy water will work on unwashables. If the stains are old, add a little ammonia to the wash water.

Q. How can I keep leather luggage, handbags, briefcases, and other such goods in good condition?

A. After dusting or washing with a cloth wrung out of pure soap-suds, apply some neat-foot oil, lanolin, or castor oil — all of which are good leather conditioners.

Q. How can I make the varnish I am using flow better?

A. Varnish will flow better and dry faster if you warm it before using. One good way is to keep the can or jar in a pan of hot water while you are working.

Probe Remains Of Man

KENIA, Ohio (AP)—The badly decomposed remains of a man found Friday by a hunter near Huffman Dam are being investigated by Greene County authorities. The victim apparently had been dead about five years, officials said. John Myers of Dayton found the body.

Planning Group Elects Industry District Man

Calvin Dunlap of Industry R. D. 1, an employee of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., was elected vice chairman of the Beaver County Planning and Zoning Commission at a reorganization meeting Thursday in Beaver Falls.

Frank Newell of Eastvale was elected chairman to succeed David Johns of Aliquippa. Others include Frank Moltrup of Beaver Falls, secretary-treasurer; Atty. Ronald Lench of Beaver Falls, retained as solicitor, and Michael Baker Jr., Inc. of Rochester, consulting engineers.

To Vote On Pact

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Steelworkers attending the Local 1104 Christmas party today and Sunday will get a chance to vote on whether to accept steel management's contract proposals. Wives of the 9,000 members also will get a chance to vote. Michael Bushch, Local 1104 president, said Friday he would conduct the balloting and keep a separate tally of the wives' vote. He expects to poll 60 to 70 per cent of the local's membership.

Bad Third Period Hurts, Potters Bow To Warren, 53-46

Seek To Balance Record At Canton Chester Extends String Over Foe, 53-51

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The East Liverpool Potters will attempt to even their season record at 2-2 tonight when they invade Memorial Fieldhouse at Canton to tangle with the McKinley Bulldogs.

The Potters - McKinley game will get under way at 8:45 following the Canton Lehigh - New Philadelphia contest at 7:15 in a scholastic twin bill.

Friday night, the Potters went to sleep at the switch for three quarters and when they finally came to life in the fourth period their rally fell short.

THE RESULT was a 53-46 victory for the Warren Panthers before some 1,000 partisan fans at the Harding High Fieldhouse.

East Liverpool dropped its second straight start after winning its opener last week over Alliance.

The victory gave Warren a 2-1 record and its second win in two seasons over the Potters. Up until last night Warren had only won three out of 23 games played in the long series.

A bad third quarter ruined the Potter hopes last night.

East Liverpool took a 24-21 lead in the dressing room at halftime, but Warren outscored the Potters 16-5 in the third quarter and showed a 37-29 margin when the period ended.

Although East Liverpool tied the score in the fourth quarter, they could never get back in front as Warren gradually pulled away in the waning moments.

In general, the local performance was dismal last night with Bob Mackall and Phil Chan the only bright spots.

Mackall played his best game of the season to date by dropping in 16 points and helped out on the boards.

East Liverpool's chances of winning were hampered when Mackall committed his fifth personal foul with 3:52 remaining in the game.

Chan was inserted into the lineup late in the third quarter. He added five points and was a vital cog with his ball stealing and feeding.

RAY BIGELOW, the 6-foot-6 center, who the Potters are waiting on to break loose one of these evenings, did a better job of rebounding last night but his scoring efforts brought only four points.

East Liverpool's top scorer last season, Kenny Cunningham, was held to his lowest mark of the present campaign - 10 points.

Mackall and Cunningham were the only Potters to hit the double figures.

Warren didn't show an outstanding team, but it did have balance and committed fewer mistakes.

John Brugler, a 6-foot-3 forward, led the attack with 16 points, hitting on jump shots from near the bucket.

Jack Currington, another 6-foot-3 performer, and Ron McGarry each scored 10 points.

Neither team proved sharpshooters, with East Liverpool canning 15 of 48 attempts for 31 per cent and Warren 20 of 62 for 32 per cent.

Warren lost one starter on fouls when Ron Barrett went to the sidelines with 4:25 remaining.

With Mackall hooping six points to lead the attack in the first period, East Liverpool broke on top 13-12.

A nip - and - tuck battle raged in the second quarter, with East Liverpool pulling even at 19-19 with 3:04 still left in the first half.

Kenny Miller put East Liverpool in front at 21-19 with about one minute remaining, then Harold Atkins added a foul for a 22-19 edge.

Currington hit from under the basket, but Mackall's pair of fouls put the Potters out in front at halftime, 24-21.

The third quarter, which proved a nightmare for Coach Jim Harris and his forces, saw Warren score 11 consecutive points. This spurt carried the Panthers in front, 34-26, midway through the period.

The third quarter, which proved a nightmare for Coach Jim Harris and his forces, saw Warren score 11 consecutive points. This spurt carried the Panthers in front, 34-26, midway through the period.

Chan's foul shot finally broke the string at 11 points, but Barrett followed with a charity toss and McGarry dropped in a two point to put Warren in front, 37-27.

Mackall hit before the third quarter ended with Warren leading, 37-29.

During the quarter Warren made 7 of 13 chances, while the Blue and White showed only two field goals in 13 tries.

After Brugler made two fouls to open the fourth quarter, the Potters bounced back to tally 10 straight points.

Cunningham added a foul, then a field goal followed by Mackall's charity toss.

Chan hit on a set shot and Bigelow and Chan put together four fouls. Chan's two charity tosses tied the count at 39-39.

Currington put Warren ahead 41-39, but Bigelow scored his only field goal of the game to knot the score at 41-41.

With about 5 minutes remaining, Barrett moved Warren in front for good as the Panthers staved off several last - ditch bids by the Potters.

Pinney's Late Tip Provides Panther Win

Chester High's Panthers continued their long basketball domination over Rochester Friday night, but only by the narrowest of margins.

Coach Max Tuttle's Panther quint squeezed by the Pennsylvania squad, 53-51, in a tense battle that wasn't decided until the final 17 seconds at the Chester gymnasium.

Center Blaine Pinney, a 6-foot sophomore, tipped in the winning goal for the Panthers to preserve their record of never having lost to Rochester. It was the fourth loss in five starts for the Rams.

Pinney made the important tip after Bob Shaffer, the lone Panther letterman, had stepped to the foul stripe for a one and one attempt. Shaffer's first shot missed and Pinney recovered and tipped in the deciding goal. Rochester managed one field goal attempt in the dying moments, but missed a chance to again deadlock the score.

It was the second straight two-point verdict for the Tuttleans as they nipped New Cumberland Tuesday night, 48-46. The Panthers now have won two and lost one.

In the opening period, the Panthers grabbed a 7-3 lead, but Rochester spurted and led by 16-9 when the quarter ended. Rochester eased to an six-point lead near the end of the second quarter, 28-22.

The Panthers rallied in the third period on a scoring attack led by Shaffer and Pinney and forged ahead on a goal by Bill Mayhew, 31-30.

Shaffer collected 15 points to spark the Panther offensive attack for the second straight game, while Pinney bagged 10, including the deciding two points. Gary Daugherty matched Pinney's effort with 10 and Mayhew and John Steele each added nine.

Rochester, which out rebounded the Panthers, placed three starters in the double figures with Winters leading with 18 on eight goals and a pair of foul shots. Firer finished with 13 while Haggerty got 12.

Chester's reserves also captured the preliminary, 23-21, over the Rochester reserves in a close battle which ended in a flurry of fistfuffs. However, officials and coaches quickly subsided the melee.

Haggerty, Rochester center, is between Steele and Pinney. Chester won, 53-51.

Salineville Five Rolls To 4th Victory, 73-37

SALINEVILLE — The Salineville Indians had little trouble chalking up their fourth victory in six games here Friday night with a 73-37 win over Augusta.

Veteran Dave Gearin led the attack on the Augusta five with 21 points while three of his teammates hit the double figures.

Jerry Giannone helped the cause with 15 points while Tom Keating had 14 and Dick Kerr 11.

The Indians jumped on top 18-10 at the end of the first period, led 37-20 at halftime then burst to a 53-29 lead after three quarters.

Crawford with 12 was high for the losers.

Salineville swept both games when the jayvees took a 31-18 contest.

First Bluebonnet Bowl Duel Pits TCU-Clemson

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two beefy football machines, Southwest Conference co-champion Texas Christian and Atlantic Coast Conference titlist Clemson, meet head-on today in the Bluebonnet Bowl inaugural football game.

Dopers picked the seventh-ranked Christians as 8-point favorites over the Tigers, the nation's No. 11 team. A crowd of at least 60,000 was expected for the clash in 70,000-seat Rice Stadium.

It was the second bowl outing for both teams in less than a year. TCU tied the Air Force, 0-0, last Jan. 1 in the Cotton Bowl while Clemson bowed to Louisiana State 7-0 in the Sugar Bowl.

Forecasters promised clear skies and temperature around 60 degrees. The game will be televised nationally (CBS) and broadcast over a national independent radio hookup.

TCU Coach Abe Martin and Clemson mentor Frank Howard both indicated they had special defenses cooked up for the battle between two teams noted for tough defensive play. Each yielded an average of less than 200 yards per game through the regular season.

Fullback Jack Spikes, the Southwest's leading rusher, sparks the TCU offense. His Clemson counterpart, Doug Cline, has paced the Tigers in ball carrying the past two seasons.

A battle between two big, fast lines promised to be equally important.

All-America Don Floyd, 220, and Bob Lilly, 240, head the TCU tackles opposing Lou Cordileone, 245, and Harold Olson, 240, who won their share of laurels for Clemson. The Horned Frogs and the Tigers both are deep in hefty alternates.

Rebels Lose Heartbreaker

United Is 57-54 Victor In Tense Overtime Fray

HANOVERTON — United and Fairfield-Waterford battled into an overtime period before United pulled out a 57-54 triumph here Friday night.

Wayne Blosser of Fairfield-Waterford was the hero late in the contest when his bucket in the last few seconds tied the count at 52-52.

United's Jim Summer proved the sparkplug in the overtime period with four points coming on a field goal and two fouls. Jerry Marks dropped in the other point from the foul line.

The victory was United's third in four outings while Fairfield-Waterford dropped its third decision in five starts.

United found Fairfield-Waterford on one its better nights as the Rebels hit close to 42 per cent. United was off from the field, showing a 31 per cent mark. Summer finished as high point man for the winners with 20 while Frank Shagnot and Lester Blanchard each dropped in 14.

The big gun for the Rebels was Clarence Kannal who showed 19 points for the evening.

United managed a clean sweep with a 46-31 victory in the reverse game.

Franco, Radler Spark Bears

Beaver Local Vanquished By Leetonia Five, 71-42

LEETONIA — Beaver Local got off to a poor start here Friday night against Leetonia High's strong Bears and was defeated, 71-42.

Coach Jack Frontone's Bears, a one-point victor over Augusta in five games, fell behind 21-7 after the first period, picked up the pace a little in the second, but scored only eight in the third and was never again in contention.

The tall Bears of Coach Len Batcha chalked up their second triumph in three games and shot a sizzling 45 per cent from the field.

Leetonia lost its first game to North Lima in an overtime and defeated Fairfield-Waterford in its second start.

It was the third straight defeat for the Bears, coming in a row to United Local, Woodrow Wilson of Youngstown and Leetonia.

Leetonia's one-two scoring wallop of Jim Franco and Lee Radler provided the winners with most of the points. Franco dropped in 22 and Radler hit for 19. Radler missed a school record by one point earlier this week when he scored 40 points.

Coach Jack Frontone's Bears, a one-point victor over Augusta in five games, fell behind 21-7 after the first period, picked up the pace a little in the second, but scored only eight in the third and was never again in contention.

The tall Bears of Coach Len Batcha chalked up their second triumph in three games and shot a sizzling 45 per cent from the field.

Midland Preserves Win Streak In 40-38 Overtime Victory

Wellsville Crushes Mingo Junction, 90-56, For Third Win

Kiggans' 23, Jackson Pace Tiger Quintet

Wellsville High's Tigers take the floor tonight in the role of "spoilers" against unbeaten Northwest and if Friday night's performance is any indication should make an early bid for statewide recognition by bagging an important triumph.

The once-beaten Tigers, spearheaded by the scoring and defensive work of center Franklin Jackson, 6-4 senior, and flashy junior forward Bob Kiggans, crushed Mingo last night, 90-56, for their third straight victory.

Coach Jack McDevitt's quint will go against Northwest about 8:15 at the Portage County school, located about two miles from Canal Fulton. Preliminary action gets under way at 7.

NORTHWEST, a Class AA consolidated school, is unbeaten in 34 straight victories, the latest a 44-40 decision over Manchester last night. The Northwest squad is coached by Thomas (Tink) Healey, a Wellsville product and former varsity coach of the Tigers.

Wellsville, beaten only by Midland in four games, enjoyed an easy night against Mingo as four starters collected double figures.

The Tigers performed almost flawlessly at the foul line in making 16 of 18, with Mac Comperetto, who has earned a starting job, sending eight of eight through the hoops.

Wellsville spotted the winless Indians six points in the opening minutes, but later gained command and never trailed again for the entire game. The squad sent 37 field goals through the nets in 68 shots for a blazing 59 per cent average.

Jackson, Kiggans and Comperetto played major roles in handing Mingo its fifth straight defeat. Jackson, beginning to hit his stride in all departments, batted Mingo shots from the air consistently and gobbled up 13 rebounds in probably his finest performance of the season.

In addition, the high-jumping veteran pumped in 20 points on 10 field goals, while Kiggans scored 23 on nine goals and five of five foul shots.

COMPARETTO, figured for a starting assignment tonight, dropped in 18 points on five goals and kept intact a string of eight consecutive free throws.

Raymond Franklin, 5-10 senior letterman, dropped in 11 points and Milton Lamp added six. Phil Baldwin, also a starter, finished with a pair of goals for four.

Regulars played only about two and one-half quarters of action after building up a 31-point half-time lead, 56-25.

Mingo, although a comparatively tall squad with 10 seniors in the fold, exerted little pressure on the Tigers who easily controlled all rebounding.

Wolford and Belpatrik accumulated most of Mingo's 22 field goals. Belpatrik scored 18 and Wolford 20 as only two starters hit for double figures.

In the preliminary, Wellsville's reserves picked up their second victory in four games by trimming Mingo's reserves, 64-39.

Pint-sized Rick Gray flipped in nine goals and four fouls for 23 points to lead Coach Carl Firm's jayvees to victory. Ben Cannadate added 15 and Jerry McCloud, 6-3 sophomore, added 10.

Smith led Mingo's reserves with 23 points.

Movie Smith, Anderson Get Vital Points

Midland High's Leopards were pressed to the limit to keep their series of exhibition victories unbroken at six Friday night in nipping McKees Rocks, 40-38, in a tense overtime thriller at the Midland gymnasium.

Coach George Hamilton's Leopards, hampered by erratic field goal shooting, bagged the victory on Movie Smith's leaping layup during a three-minute overtime period.

Big Movie scored the deciding points, but it was junior flash Carl Anderson who flipped in a desperate jump shot from outside the foul stripe with only a few seconds remaining to pull Midland from behind to a 28-38 deadlock.

Smith, 6-4, 210-pound center, scored the only field goal of the overtime period after taking a clever pass from playmaker guard Don Migliore.

The Leopards, still without the services of senior star Gene Lake who is sidelined with illness, had probably their worst night of the season in field goal averages.

Midland trailed 16 of 68 shots for 22 per cent, which was, however, only a few percentage points worse than McKees Rocks' 24.5 per cent on 13 of 58.

Midland had an edge in rebounding, picking off 21 offensive and 26 defensive balls. The losing Tigers grabbed nine offensive rebounds and 25 defensively.

Steve Yetso, rangy 6-4 forward, topped Midland's scoring attack with 11 points, while Anderson finished with 10. Smith contributed the winning goal and three other fielders for eight points.

Rudy Krivosia failed to break into the scoring column, but played an outstanding floor game for Midland.

Raley's 18 points led the losers who placed a single starter in the double figures.

In the preliminary, Midland's Jayvees tripped the McKees Rocks five, 45-21.

Midland, which opens Section 8 WPAI action Jan. 5 against Beaver, meets Aliquippa in its next game Monday night at home.

Jerry West Pours In 37 Points

Mounties Nip St. Louis, Face Kentucky In Finals

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jerry West and his rough, tough West Virginia Mountaineers get a chance at sweet revenge tonight when they meet Kentucky in the finals of the University of Kentucky Invitational Basketball Tournament in Lexington.

Last year, the same two teams met for the championship and the Wildcats won 97-91.

This time, though, the Mountaineers will be the favorites. They cleared their first big obstacle Friday night in the first round of the tourney by edging St. Louis, 87-86, to run their record to 7-0.

Kentucky, slow starting, advanced at the expense of North Carolina, 76-70.

In the other big tournament on Duke's card, Navy goes against Duke for the title in the Birmingham Classic in Birmingham, Ala. The Mountaineers turned back Auburn, 66-61, and Duke trounced Alabama, 78-60, in first-round games.

All-America West was the big man in the West Virginia triumph, scoring a record 37 points, 25 of them in the first half. He fouled out with 22 seconds left in the game.

West Virginia had an easier time than the score would indicate.

With Lucas breaking Lenny Moore's old individual records at Penn State by gaining 1,238 yards in 10 games, the Nittany Lions lost only to Syracuse and Pitt. They gave Syracuse, the nation's No. 1 team, its worst score before bowing 20-18 in early November.

Alabama led the nation in pass defense, allowing an average of only 45.7 yards in the air per game. They were fourth in total defense, limiting the enemy to an average of 179.2 yards per game.

In 10 games Alabama scored only 95 points but gave up only 45 points. Penn State scored 225 and yielded 112 points.

The Alabama offense centered about quarterback Pat Trammell, a sophomore, who carried 156 times for 525 yards and passed for only 293 yards all season.

Both coaches Rip Engle of Penn State and Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama used a "scatter T" offense with flankers, split end, unbalanced line on occasion and wingbacks.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Penn State's Richie Lucas, a deft triple threat quarterback, challenged Alabama's sturdy defense today in the first Liberty Bowl game at Philadelphia Stadium.

A crowd of 45,000 was expected at the 100,000-seat stadium for this test of strength between representative teams from the East and South. The game, scheduled for 1 p.m. (EST), was to be carried on network (NBC) television.

Clearing, cool weather with temperatures in the mid 40s was the pleasant forecast after a day of steady rain. The field, last used for the Army-Navy game, was covered with a tarpaulin.

Penn State (8-2) remained a one-point favorite over the sturdy Alabama team (7-1-2) that was unbeaten in its last nine games after dropping the opener to Georgia 17-3. Both Vanderbilt and Tennessee tied Alabama, which finished fourth in the Southeastern Conference.

Continental
In '62 Now,
Rickey Says
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the newly formed Continental Baseball League, says that a lack of cooperation from the major leagues will probably force his circuit to open in 1962 rather than in 1961.

"Three months ago I felt we could get under way in 1961," Rickey told newsmen Friday. "But recently we have not received the cooperation we need from the major leagues."

Rickey cited the following roadblocks as reasons against the new circuit's opening in 1961:

1. The monopoly of players and territories by the two present leagues.
2. A lack of foresight on the part of the National and American leagues. Rickey asserted that the major leagues cannot foresee that such expansion as the new league is the only salvation for baseball, since the minor leagues are dying off.
3. The American League's talk of expansion. The Continental League, said Rickey, can't get membership because baseball people feel their city may be taken into one of the current leagues.

Despite the problems however, Rickey was optimistic about the prospects of the third league. He said that once the circuit got started, it would be ready to compete in a World Series in three years.

Huron College of South Dakota carried a 28-game winning streak into its final football game of the season and lost to Northern State Teachers of Aberdeen, S.D.

Braun Named Knicks Coach

BOSTON (AP)—Carl Braun brings a fighting spirit but no plans for a personnel shakeup to the job of playing-coach of the slump-ridden New York Knickerbockers.

The veteran backcourt man makes his coaching debut today with the National Basketball Assn. club for which he has played 11 seasons. The Knicks meet Boston here in a televised contest—4 p.m. EST, NBC.

Braun was named to replace Fuzzy Levane Friday by owner Ned Irish.

New York lost its fourth straight, 137-126, to Boston at Providence, R. I., Thursday night. The Knicks, mired in the Eastern Division cellar, have been able to win only 8 of 27 starts.

"I've been told that nobody is expecting miracles this year," Braun said, "but I'll be trying just as hard as if they were expected."

Braun said he met with the team and assured them there would be no changes in the club roster.

Before taking a plane from Boston, Irish also said Vince Boryla, Knicks coach two years before Levane succeeded him, would rejoin the club as general manager Jan. 1 if he could clear up some business problems in Denver.

Among heads of state who are also golfers are President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain, King Baudouin of the Belgians, and Prime Minister Kishi of Japan.

NAIA Names 9 To Football Hall Of Fame

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, representing 452 small colleges, Friday night named nine men to its football hall of fame for 1959.

The men received the award at the annual NAIA hall of fame banquet, part of the program surrounding today's Holiday Bowl game between Texas A&I and Lehigh.

Named for their contributions to the game were Robert Earl Bos, former coach at William Bowles, former coach at William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.; Howard Hancock, former coach and presently athletic director at Illinois State Normal University at Normal; and Alfred Nash Higgins, former coach at the University of Tampa.

Three coaches named for the honor were Joseph Aillet, Louisiana Polytechnic College at Ruston; Dale Hamilton, Central Oklahoma State College at Edmond; and Volney Ashford, Missouri Valley College at Marshall.

Last 2 Candidates Report Expenses

The last two expense reports from officials - elect were filed Friday, the deadline for submitting the reports required by state law, the County Election Board said today.
Dean Stockman, Republican mayor - elect of Lisbon was the last to qualify, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.
Stockman, who reported expenses of $43.50 in winning the mayoralty at the Nov. 3 election, drove to East Liverpool to mail his report so it wouldn't be delayed in the Christmas rush. It was postmarked at 7 a. m. yesterday, 9 hours before the deadline.
A Columbiana village councilman - elect also filed yesterday to complete the reports of winning candidates, O'Hanlon said.

larly relating to labor negotiations and the continuing fight for better protection against imports.
In 30 years as head of the labor committee, he saw only one general strike — the 23-day work stoppage that was settled last May. In the 26 years that W. E. Wells was head of the labor committee there also was one general strike, so there have been only two all-out work stoppages in the 56 years that the Wells father and son handled contract negotiations.
Looking back over his long association with the industry, J. M. Wells was unable to forecast that the future will be brighter for dinnerware.

In fact, he feels that "the future looks darker than it has at any time in the past."
He cited "comparatively high rates of pay in the domestic industry as compared to our foreign competitors."
"There has been no disposition on the part of the powers that be in Washington to recognize or alleviate the situation," he commented.
"The difference in wage rates has been emphasized by the introduction of the same labor-saving machinery in foreign plants that is used in the more modern potteries in the United States."
"Production per man hour in foreign plants has been getting closer to the U. S. standard, but their wage rates still are only one-tenth of ours."
"Unless something is done in the way of additional protection via quotas, it looks very much like the Japanese will take over the rest of the United States market."

Plastic dinnerware still is a threat to conventional ware, but its growth is not nearly so rapid as it was a few years ago, he pointed out. The major threat to the U. S. dinnerware producer still lies in cheaply-produced ware shipped in from abroad, he said.
Although plastics may "continue to get a substantial share of the market," the new industry is not growing at the fast rate it showed for about 7 years, he commented.

Salvation Army To Close Signup For Food Baskets

Needy families of the area have until 5 p. m. today to sign for Christmas food baskets at the Salvation Army headquarters.
The families will receive a notice through the mail of the time to pick up the food the day before Christmas.
To avoid duplication of gifts to one family from several organizations, the Salvation Army is also serving as an agency to clear names of needy families for all organizations distributing Christmas baskets.

This step also guards against cases in which one family might receive help from several groups while another family goes without any aid, the citadel explained.
The service includes checking of names with city organizations, churches, Sunday Schools and clubs against the citadel's own record. In addition to holiday food, clothing, fuel and toys are also distributed to families.
Persons or organizations wishing to clear a case may phone FU. 5-1339.

Hearings Planned On 3 Old Charges

Three long-pending criminal cases have been assigned for hearings Monday in Municipal Court.
Cited Nov. 7 on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol, Clyde Hunt, 1069 Locust St., is scheduled for arraignment on a reduced charge of being in physical control of an auto while intoxicated.
William Tynes, 1087 Monaca St., is scheduled to appear on charges of disorderly conduct by fighting and cutting with intent to wound, maim or kill Gail Freeman as the aftermath of a fight Oct. 9 on E. 3rd St.
Hunt was cited as an aftermath of a crash at Pennsylvania Ave. and E. 4th St. in which his auto struck a utility pole, overturned and became entangled in electric wires. The new affidavit alleging physical control of the car while intoxicated was filed Thursday by the arresting officer, Patrolman K. H. Mooney.

Sees 2,750 Deer Bag
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Division of Wildlife predicts the total deer permit sales will total almost 27,000 and that deer hunters will bag 2,750 deer. Last year, permit sales were almost 43,000 and 4,400 deer were taken. The estimates are taken from first day reports projected with last years totals for the same period, the division said.

Court To Rule On Ordinance

his ruling in a case in which a scrap dealer was tried for failing to store some junk "inside a building or enclosed yard."
The fact that the court's opinion is ready was disclosed today when the case of the City of East Liverpool vs. N. Barry Berman was listed on the assignment for next Tuesday.
Testimony in the Berman case was heard Dec. 9, then the judge took under advisement the constitutional questions raised by the defense. However, he commented at the time that the city presented enough evidence to convict the defendant if the ordinance is ruled valid.

The charge was filed Dec. 3 by Patrolman W. E. McDaniel under a section of the ordinance which says a junk business must be conducted entirely inside "a building or enclosed yard." The ordinance requires a 7-foot fence around a junk dealer's premises.
Atty. Ben Berman, who appeared for the defense, contended the ordinance is unconstitutional because it is "arbitrary and discriminatory."
Patrolman McDaniel filed a similar charge Sept. 3 against Paul Berman, father of Barry. The two are partners in the Berman Iron & Steel Co. on W. 4th St. Ext. Paul Berman also pleaded innocent and raised constitutional questions in regard to the ordinance. His hearing still is pending.

Yule Sermon Will Be Given

The Rev. William A. Hewitt will preach on "The Truth About Christmas" at the 11 a. m. worship Sunday at the Central Methodist Church at Wellsville.
The Senior Choir will sing an anthem. Judith Walker will speak on "A Christmas Story" during junior meditation.
Organ music will include "The Carolers" (Wilson), "Christmas Pastors" (Demarest) and "Excels Deo" (Ellis). Miss Jean Perry is organist.
Sunday School is at 10.
Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p. m. The group will go caroling Wednesday night.
A Christmas program will be presented at 7:30 p. m. Natalie Lewis and Luella Maylene are co-directors. Lottie Wilson will be the accompanist.
The program will include recitations by children and there will be selections by soloists, a duet and a quintet.
The choir will do the "Christmas In Scripture, Song, and Story." Mary Lou Beaumont will be reader.
Ushers will be Darrell Stover, Tommy Malone, Bruce Wicker, and Larry Baughman. Charles Malone and Rev. Hewitt will offer prayers.

Budget
tment. The board felt that amount would carry the program through next year.
The three major budget accounts on which the board acted yesterday were state school aid, public assistance and the Health Department.
For school aid, the board recommended a general revenue fund outlay of $53,787,000. This is $549,000 above this year's general revenue total. The board is intended to offset an anticipated drop in another source of school aid money, the general school fund.
The board recommended $10,476,000 for the Department of Public Assistance. This is an increase of $10,000 from this year. For the Health Department, the board recommended an increase of $231,000 to an even $1,000,000.

When the board finished its work, its spending recommendations overran Ash's income estimate. The board easily avoided red ink by simply raising the income estimate by $625,000. Under the constitution, it is the income estimate of the board, not the finance commissioner, which is binding on the Legislature.
The board's estimate is that the general revenue fund will have a cash balance of $2,254,000 at the end of 1959-60 and will take in $112,350,000 in 1960-61, making the available total for next year $114,604,000.
The recommended appropriations from surplus for building projects include $548,250 for a new classroom building at the School for the Blind at Romney; $450,000 for a crib ward dormitory at the West Virginia Training School at St. Marys, an institution for retarded children, and $500,000 for a sheltered workshop for the blind at the Vocational Rehabilitation Center at Institute.

Drifting Auto Lands In Yard

A lawn, rose bushes and stone culvert at an Avondale St. home were damaged late Friday night by a drifting car, police were told.
Police said a car owned by Donald E. Abbott, 204 East Alley, drifted back into the yard of Edwin Wheeler, 724 Avondale St., where the driver left the scene of the accident.
The rear fenders and trunk of the Abbott car were damaged, police said.
Two other minor mishaps were reported Friday afternoon.
A collision at 2:10 p. m. at Bradford Ave. and Grove Alley involved an eastbound auto driven by Jean Flasco, 33, of 1837 Idaho Ave. and a northbound car driven by George Beach, 51, of 604 1/2 Walnut St., police said.
The entire right side of the Flasco car was scraped, police said, but there was no damage to the Beach auto.
A car driven by Patricia Schneidmiller, 26, of 313 Vine St., struck a parked car owned by Jo Ann P. Dailey of LaCroft Ave. at 3:20 p. m. on College St.
The woman said she was headed south on College St. and was attempting to pass a northbound car when she struck the Dailey auto. The right front fender of the Schneidmiller car and the left rear fender and bumper of the Dailey car were damaged, police said.

Movies Shown To Midland Lions

Louis Gengerella, a member of the Midland Lions Club, showed movies of a trip to Italy at its meeting Thursday evening at Derao's Restaurant.
Emeric Davis was program chairman.
George Hamilton, chairman of the boys and girls committee, said toys collected by the club will be taken soon to the Beaver County Children's Home at New Brighton.
Transportation was reported arranged for four Midland blind persons to attend a party Dec. 29 at the Lighthouse of the Blind at New Brighton. Richard McDonald, sight conservation chairman, will be in charge.
Paul Schlosser gave a report on the sale of Christmas trees at the lot next to the First National Bank and at Craft's service station in Industry.
There will be no meetings during the holidays. The next will be Jan. 14 and the Board of Directors will meet Jan. 7.

Man Dies In Fire

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Fire killed a 46-year-old Springfield Township man Friday and destroyed his one-story frame home on Angola Road, two miles west of here. The victim, Alvin Shaw, died of suffocation, Coroner Paul Holyrud ruled. Firemen estimated damage at $7,000 and blamed an overheated heater for the blaze.
Self-Service Dinner
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Gene Kinney said he and a neighbor spent most of one day building a duck blind of lumber, carefully camouflaged with willow branches. The next Saturday they hurried out to do some shooting and at the site they found the willow branches gone. Nearby stood a bull chewing his cud.

Driver Fined On 3 Charges
An East End motorist was fined a total of $150 on three of four charges — including driving while intoxicated and resisting arrest at Chester today.
Charles Daniel Crooms, 22, of 413 Putnam St. was taken into custody Friday night about 8:30 by two Hancock County sheriff's deputies after his car hit a parked auto and knocked down a postal letter box at Carolina Ave. and 6th St., Chester.

Crooms' car struck the parked auto of John Hayes of Chester, and broke off the support post of the letter box which was thrown to the pavement, police said.
He was cited by Deputies James Young and Arnie Durham for drunken driving, $100 and costs; improper registration, $25 and costs and resisting arrest, $25 and costs.
He was also given a mandatory jail sentence of 60 days by Mayor Burton Ward who suspended his right to drive in West Virginia for 6 months. The fourth charge, lack of a driver's license, was dismissed when he produced a permit.

Christmas Music Will Be Presented

Sacred Christmas music will be featured at the 7:30 p. m. service Sunday at the First United Presbyterian Church.
At the 11 a. m. worship Dr. Alexander K. Davidson will speak on "God's Planned Christmas."
Prayer service at 9:25 a. m. will precede Bible School at 9:40.
Young people will meet at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. to go caroling.
The McBane Teen-age mission group will meet at 6:15 p. m. for a program.
Junior Missionary Society will meet at 6:15 with Martha Baxter leader.
The Christ-for-Youth meeting scheduled Wednesday night has been postponed to Jan. 6.
A white gift offering will be received at both services.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CARD OF THANKS

WE take this opportunity of thanking the many friends who offered sympathy during our recent bereavement; also those who sent floral offerings, especially the D. W. S. G.
 Funeral Home, Mrs. Carmela
 Galipio & Family.

WE wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all the kind friends, relatives and neighbors whose expressions of sympathy meant so much to us upon the death of our beloved father and brother, EDWARD
 O'MALLEY. Special thanks to Rev.
 O'Malley, Dawson Funeral Home,
 Berea, Ohio, Hospital Staff and Dr. Laiva.

WIFE MARY, SISTER RUTH.

Church Due White Gifts

A White Christmas Gift program will be presented at the 9:45 a. m. Sunday School hour tomorrow at the Westminster United Presbyterian Church at Chester. Gifts in the form of canned goods (labeled) will be collected at Sunday and church service and will be distributed by the Board of Deacons for needy families of the community.

The program will feature Christmas readings and carol singing.

At the 11 a. m. worship, the Rev. William Claghorn will speak on "How High Is Your Star?"

Musical will consist of an anthem, "Bethlehem" (Stickles), by the Melody Choir with Claude Ankrom, soloist; two anthems, "Susssex Carol" (Ehret), and "Sing Gloria" (Davis), both by the Chancel Choir, and a solo, "O, Holy Night" (Adam), by Mrs. Donald Smith.

Other music will include an organ and piano prelude, "Carol Medley," by Mrs. W. Ingram, pianist, and Mrs. T. W. Martin, organist; offertory solo, "We Three Kings" (Hopkins), by James D. Cooper, and the postlude, "In Dulci Jubilo" (Bach).

Members of the Junior and Senior Fellowships will meet at the church at 6:30 p. m. to go caroling to homes of the sick and shut-in members.

Board of Deacons will meet Monday night at 6 to pack and distribute the White Christmas gifts.

The Melody Choir will rehearse Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. and the Chancel Choir at 7.

Choirs Will Combine In Salineville Service

SALINEVILLE — The annual Christmas cantata of various combined church choirs will be presented Sunday night at 7:30 at the First Methodist Church.

The cantata, "Love Transcending," (Peterson), will be directed by Jack Randolph.

The services have been arranged by the Salineville Ministerial Association.

'Miracle Of Bethlehem'

Cantata And Film Planned For 1st Nazarene Church

The annual Christmas cantata, with a film, will be held Sunday night at 7:30 at the First Church of the Nazarene. "The Miracle of Bethlehem" (Ralsey) will be directed by Miss Eva Mae Staats. Mrs. Jean Bowby will be organist and Mrs. Gertrude Hulse pianist.

The choir will sing "But Thou, Bethlehem," with Mrs. May Rice as soloist; "A Highway for Our God," Edward Rice, soloist; "The Little Son of God," vocal duet by Thurman and Carolyn Allen; "While Shepherds Watched," Mrs. Herschel Stover, soloist, and "Come and Adore Him," Frank Tice, soloist.

Other music will include "Oh, Come, Emmanuel," Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus, the choir and Harold Hardy, soloist; "Fear Not," Doris Allen, soloist; "Out of the East," vocal trio, Thurman Allen, Dick Wonders and Ed Rice; "In a Manger," Women's Chorus and the choir, and "Gloria In Excelsis Deo," Women's Chorus, Men's Chorus, the choir and vocal solo by Mrs. Bonnie Stiteler.

The children of the combined Church School departments will present the annual Christmas program at 9:30 a. m. and it will feature a pageant, "Living Christmas Tree."

A platform has been constructed for the boys and girls to form a Christmas tree. The children's attire and the decorations will be in keeping with the season.

Mrs. Flora Hunton is director; Jeff Capehart, organist; Mrs. Dolph Knott, pianist, and Mrs. Eileen Davis, narrator.

"The Singing Christmas Tree" will be sung by the Junior and Primary Departments, led by Mrs. Ruby Rutter. Jay Davis and Danny Skidmore will be soloists. A duet will be sung by Mrs. Rutter and Thurman Allen.

The Rev. James Hunton will speak on "The Humble Crib and the Heavenly Wonder."

Prayer service will be conducted Wednesday night at 7:30.

Newell's 13th Sing Will Be Held Sunday

Newell's 13th annual community Christmas sing will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. in the First Presbyterian Church.

Sponsored by the Women's Club, the program will include solos by Thomas Schneidmiller and Mrs. John S. McDevitt.

Schneidmiller will sing "Comfort Ye" from Handel's "Messiah," and "The Lord's Prayer" (Mellotte).

"Oh, Holy Night" (Adam) and "Ave Maria" (Schubert) will be sung by Mrs. McDevitt, band director of Wells High School.

Other Christmas selections will be sung by the Wells High School Student Choir.

The organ prelude by Miss Bernice Myler will be "Hosanna" (Wachs).

The church nursery will be open for children of parents attending.

Mrs. V. E. McEldowney is chairman. Her committee includes Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. C. Edward Dement, Mrs. J. Carl Durham, Mrs. Leonard Copestick and Mrs. Paul Mosher.

Union Service Set Wednesday Night At Bethel Church

A union song and candlelight service will be held Wednesday night at 8 at the Bethel Presbyterian Church near Wellsville with three other churches participating.

The candlelight portion of the service has been planned by the Rev. Richard S. Beidler, pastor of the Yellow Creek Presbyterian Church.

Other clergymen participating include the Rev. William A. Hewitt, who will represent the Highlandtown Methodist Church; the Rev. Ernest E. Bacon of the Oak Ridge Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Joseph H. Varner Jr. pastor of the host church. Rev. Hewitt is also pastor of the Wellsville Methodist Church.

The combined choirs and choral groups of the four churches will sing under the direction of Thomas A. McGeehan.

Georgetown Yule Fete Set

The annual Christmas Festival of Music will be held at the Georgetown Methodist Church Sunday at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. David Dayen will preach.

Organists will be Harold Stewart and Mrs. Louis Wagner, choir director. Mrs. Edwin Cooper will play the piano.

The choir will sing "The Hallelujah Chorus" during a candlelight procession. Stewart will give an organ recital of Christmas music and Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Wagner will play "Prince of Peace" (Donizetti). Mrs. Gilbert McHaffie will sing "Gates of Heaven Opened" (Kohlman) and Miss Flora Lee Nash will sing "A Shepherd's Vision" (Judson).

Harold Stewart will sing "All Through the Night" (Judson). Mrs. Glenn Mackall and Mrs. Joseph Simcox will sing a duet, "Christmas Candles" (Lighthill).

Other singers will be Mr. and Mrs. William Durst, Mrs. Paul Mackall, Mrs. Harold Stewart, Mrs. Donald McHaffie, Mrs. Dick McHaffie, Mrs. William Reckner, Miss Alvera Reckner, Mrs. Howard Campbell, Willie Durham, Wendell Welborn and Mrs. Walter Reed.

Mrs. Gilbert McHaffie's Church School Class will sing "The Christmas Light Is Shining."

Decorations will include a lighted Christmas tree. The decorating committee includes Miss Erma Mackall, Mrs. William Alger and Miss Nash.

The annual treat will be given during Church School at 9:30 a. m. The program will include a song by Mrs. McHaffie's class and a trumpet solo by Jack Miles.

City Church Slates 'White Gifts' Event

White Gift Sunday will be observed tomorrow at the morning worship at the First Church of Christ. A benevolent offering will also be received for the support and care of boys and girls and the aged.

The annual offering of staple and canned goods will be distributed to needy families at Christmas by the deaconesses.

John N. Mostoller, minister, will speak on "The Gift."

The Adult Choir will sing an anthem, "Glory to God," and the Junior Choir, "A Child Is Born In Bethlehem."

Mrs. Evelyn Talbott, organist, will play "Jesu Bambina" (Yon), and "Christmas Postlude" (Becker). The offertory, "The Shepherds and the Angels," will be played by Mrs. Talbott at the organ and Miss Barbara Mostoller at the piano.

CYF will meet at 6:15 p. m. At the 7:30 p. m. service, the Christmas story will be presented in special narration. The Junior, Youth and Adult Choirs will provide the music.

Young people of the church will go caroling Monday night at 6 and return to the church for a chili supper.

3 Midland Churches Will Unite In Service

Three Midland churches will join in a Christmas Day service at 5 a. m. Place of the combined event will be announced after Sunday's services.

Participating will be the Mt. Olive Baptist church, the Rev. W. L. Harris; the St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. I. S. Freeman, and the Church of the Living God, the Rev. Eula Reese.

Rev. Harris will preach on "A Preview of Christmas" at his services at 11 a. m. tomorrow. His church will also hold a Christmas program Dec. 27 at 8 p. m. with Mrs. Celeste Short, superintendent of the Sunday School, in charge.

At St. Stephen's Church

Christmas Eve Services Will Feature Varied Music

Nativity hymns, carols and anthems will be featured at the Christmas Eve service at 10 at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Holy Communion will be distributed at 10:30. The Rev. Marc Anton Nocerino is rector.

The Senior Choir will sing an anthem, "Slumber Song of the Infant Jesus" (Gevaert), and the Junior Choir will sing two anthems, "Ring Bells In the Steeple" (Spanish traditional) and "O, Children Come Quickly" (Austrian carol).

Both choirs will join in "O, Little Town of Bethlehem" (St. Louis) and "What Child Is This" (Greensleeves).

Other music will include the prelude, "Fantasie and Fugue In G Minor" (Bach); gradual hymn, "Let All Mortal Flesh Keep Silence;" meditation hymn, "A Great and Mighty Wonder;" offertory, anthem, "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel); recessional hymn, "Good Christian Men, Rejoice," and postlude, "Carillon from the Christmas Suite" (Edmundson).

Longs Run Choir To Present 'Carols Of Christmas' Cantata

The Senior Choir of the Longs Run United Presbyterian Church will present the cantata, "The Carols of Christmas," Sunday night at 7:30. The congregation will join the choir in a special carol songfest. The service will be by candlelight.

The first part of the cantata will include "The Christmas Invitation," with Millie Wilson as soloist; "The Prophet's Singing," "The Message of the Angels," by Arlene Pugh, Alice Lamping and Julia Barnhart, and "The Dark Silent Town," by Beulah Holden, Arlene Pugh, Julia Barnhart, Millie Wilson, William Holden and Ray Entrikey.

Selections for the second part will consist of "Come to the Manger," "Guided by a Star," by Arlene Pugh, William Thomas, Carl Kirkbride Jr. and William Holden, "The Adoration" by Paul Fogal, and "Thrice Holy Day."

The choir is directed by Paul Fogal and Mrs. Thelma Wilson will be at the piano. Miss Mary McDevitt will play the organ for the congregational sing.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Robert K. Fogal. At the 11 a. m. worship, Rev. Fogal will preach on "The Unspeakeable Gift."

Prayer service will be held at 9:45 a. m. followed with Adult Sunday School and Junior Department service at 10 and Junior Department Sunday School at 11.

The Sunday School will present its annual program Tuesday night at 7:30. The presentation will be in three parts with the children from the downstairs departments.

Teeth for a Lifetime

A leader in American dentistry presents a startling report on the great strides in dental health

by DR. PERCY T. PHILLIPS Past President, American Dental Association
as told to LESTER DAVID

THE AMERICAN Dental Association recently celebrated its 100th anniversary. As its second century begins, dentists of this country can proudly predict two things:

Children now being born should be able to keep their teeth for a lifetime, and adults, exercising proper care, can do nearly as well.

For years the dental profession has had specific targets which would assure Americans this prospect of greater health. Recently our targets have been realized. Here are a few:

TARGET: Wipe out periodontal disease, the main villain in adult tooth loss.

PROGRESS: Not only can this condition, mistakenly called pyorrhea, frequently be cured, it now can be prevented.

The condition makes gums swell, then shrink and pull away from the necks of the teeth. Pus pockets form and infection eats into bones supporting the teeth. Sometimes the teeth become so loose, a finger can pluck them out.

We don't know what causes it. But because we can recognize the early signs of periodontal disease, we can now stop it before it takes hold. Dentists are alert for telltale signs—tartar forming where the gums meet the teeth, worn-out fillings, sharp edges of broken teeth, ill-fitting partial dentures, poor bite, persistent wedging of food between the teeth. When such warnings are spotted, preventive measures can be taken.

Even if periodontal disease gets a start, techniques have been developed for treatment. Diseased gum tissue often can be removed surgically. In certain cases, splints and other appliances can be constructed to restore gum strength and help tighten teeth. The dentist may even give some psychological advice—relax! Often the disease is caused by tension-ridden tooth grinders!

TARGET: Make tooth decay a thing of the past.

PROGRESS: Some dentists now in practice "may witness dental caries (decay) joining typhoid, smallpox, and other preventable diseases which have been conquered by man."

That statement by Dr. Willard C. Fleming, dean of the University of California school of dentistry, is based on several achievements. Use of water fluoridation by many communities, for example, has reduced decay by as much as 60 percent among children, and now scientists are tracking down substances which may act directly to prevent decay.

Their research shows that certain oral bacteria convert sugars to acids which cause cavities. Some chemicals can either kill the bacteria or stop them from making acid. Many experts claim they will be in common use within 10 years.

Nor is this all. Dr. Leroy E. Burney, U. S. Surgeon General, reports that the addition of certain mineral phosphates to children's diets may cause "significant reduction" in dental decay. He adds, "An effective dietary control of decay may now be in the making to supplement and extend the protection already available through fluorides and through good dental care."

TARGET: Better fillings and other dental materials.

PROGRESS: New and longer-lasting restorative materials are being developed every year.

Crowns and bridges, as well as fillings, are being constructed of materials of far greater durability. We even have experimented with constructing dentures which will be held to the jaws firmly with tiny cobalt-nickel magnets, the most powerful of their size ever developed.

TARGET: Save abscessed teeth and improve root-canal work.

PROGRESS: An abscessed tooth no longer means extraction in every case, and failures in root-canal work have been minimized.

Antibiotics are the keys in both cases. They have helped dentists salvage many "impossible" abscesses and also have given better odds in saving a tooth which is impossible to fill without removing the nerve and pulp, then filling the hollow root canal and closing it permanently. Formerly, bacteria might also be sealed in, causing abscess and infection. Now antibiotic treatment, plus new medication and techniques, makes this much rarer.

TARGET: Take the discomfort out of drilling.

PROGRESS: Much of today's fear is psychological, merely a hang-over from less efficient days.

The new high-speed tooth-cutting instruments have eliminated much nerve-jangling noise and vibration. They work so fast the patient is in the chair less time and experiences less actual discomfort. They provide excellent results, and patients feel virtually nothing.

TARGET: Get Americans to take better care of their teeth.

PROGRESS: Well, you'll have to answer that one individually.

Dentists need your help in achieving their ultimate goal for you—"teeth for a lifetime." Eat liberal amounts of food rich in vitamins, minerals, and proteins. Daily diets should include milk and its products; meat, fish, or poultry; eggs, butter, or fortified margarine; vegetables and fruits; and bread and cereal.

Brush your teeth immediately after eating and before retiring, each area several strokes, the lower teeth up and the upper teeth down. Don't forget the inner surfaces and biting areas.

With your help, dentists can assure you that the future health of your teeth never looked brighter!

COVER:

As Christmas morn approaches, greetings pour in from old friends and mysterious packages arrive by the score, giving the mantelpiece a festive air, as in Homer Hill's cover painting.

Sharing is one of the best parts of Christmas, so recently Ed Sullivan asked some of his world-famous friends to share their most treasured memories of the season with him. They responded with warm and poignant reminiscences—which Mr. Sullivan, in turn, shares with us.

Christmas with

JACK BENNY

Dear Ed,

When I think of Christmas, I remember Father O'Connell, a priest in Sioux City, Iowa. At his death a few years ago, one of my most treasured friendships suddenly vanished, but a Christmas will never come without my memory racing back over the years to Sioux City and the night we first met.

Christmas in a town where I didn't have one friend wasn't exactly my idea of a holiday. It was in the early 1920s, and I had been playing a vaudeville engagement there. To make things worse, the snow began to fall. It was a white Christmas all right, but I didn't share in any of the joy I saw around me.

On Christmas Eve, the rest of the troupe had started to leave the theater, but I sat in the dressing room, feeling a long, long way from my home and friends in Waukegan. Of course, I had been on vaudeville tours at Christmas time before, but there were always a couple of friends on the bill, and we managed to talk ourselves into a good time and a celebration over Christmas dinner in some restaurant, even though we were far away from Mama's apple strudel.

But that year, besides not knowing a soul in town, I didn't know anyone playing the engagement with me. As the theater grew silent, I dreaded the prospect of dinner all by myself the next day. I was growing more alone by the minute when suddenly there was a knock at the door.

"Come in," I called, and looked up to see a priest standing in the doorway.

He was a smiling, ruddy-faced man who introduced himself as Father O'Connell. "Jack," he began, adding uncertainly, "I hope you don't mind my calling you Jack." Then at once he explained, "It's just that I've seen you every time you've come to Sioux City, and I think your act is great."

Mind him calling me Jack! We were friends before I had time to answer.

Hesitantly he suggested that in case I hadn't already planned Christmas with someone, he would be very glad if I would have dinner with him. I jumped at the chance.

Instead of a lonely little restaurant the next afternoon, I found myself at the rectory having a wonderful dinner with Father O'Connell and five other priests. I didn't feel at all strange, though I am Jewish and it was the first time I had been inside a rectory. To this day, I can't remember another Christmas so filled with laughter and real joy. Once dinner was over, the priests went to open presents under their tree, where I was dumbfounded and touched to find a small gift from every one of them for me.

Good will toward all men indeed!

In the years that followed, Father O'Connell and I became close friends. Whenever I played Sioux City, he was at the depot to meet my train and spend any time he could spare with me. I looked forward to bookings in the once-lonely town where I hadn't known a single person on Christmas Eve. With Father O'Connell's sudden death, I lost a generous and dear friend, and I have often realized since then that Christmas away from home is not so very different for me than Christmas away from the warmth and unassuming kindness I had found in that distant rectory in Sioux City.

J. EDGAR HOOVER

Dear Ed,

I love dogs.

Perhaps that is why the advent of the holiday season always brings to mind one Christmas marked "Special" among all the others. Interlaced through my memory of it is the sharp image of a small black dog.

Old age had overtaken our family's beloved Airedale, Spee Dee. We all missed him very much but my mother most of all. She was convinced that no dog could ever take his place and, out of loyalty to old Spee Dee, no one would suggest getting another dog. But the house seemed empty.

Some months before Christmas, a sympathetic friend, who knew how we all felt about the loss of our old pet, asked a favor of Mother.

Would she, he questioned, look after his dog while he was away on an extended vacation? Mother hesitated. I'm sure she felt that having a dog even as a boarder would bring back the heartaches and sad memories wrought by Spee Dee's death. But, at my urging, she agreed reluctantly to accept the responsibility.

It was not long before our household was completely captivated by an alert, black terrier puppy who refused to let anyone think of him as merely a star boarder. We became deeply attached to him.

Yet we could not forget that we didn't own him. Now we not only missed Spee Dee, but we were faced with the prospect of losing Scottie as well. We dreaded the thought that we would soon have to return him.

No one would have admitted how much we wanted to keep the little terrier. To be sure, he was a replacement; we were only doing our friend a favor. We tried to console ourselves by saying no dog could ever take Spee Dee's place.

On Christmas, we found a card among our gifts under the tree. It was addressed to "All the Hoovers" and marked "Not to be opened until Christmas." My mother asked me to open it.

The card read, "Scottie—he's yours to keep."

BING CROSBY

Dear Ed,

I can look back over a long list of Christmases—not, as Bob Hope would lead people to believe, going back to Valley Forge—but long enough. One Christmas above all others stands out in my memory. It was a simple day, I suppose, by present teen-age standards, but its recollection never fails to induce a mellow glow for me.

I was 13. We lived in Spokane, Wash., where a white Christmas is standard, and where skating and sledding were the big joys for the youngsters in those days. But our skates, which never fit us properly, were hand-me-downs from the elders, and our sleds were handmade affairs with wooden runners and clumsy steering devices.

Now, if a fella had a "Flexible Flyer" with steel hollow-groove runners, footrests, and mechanical steering, he could ask the "village belle" to go up to Ledgerwood Hill and spend the day sledding. My eye was on the girl, and my heart was set on the sled. In the few weeks before Christmas, I worked harder than ever at selling newspapers to earn enough money to buy that sled, but I didn't quite make it. I was a few bucks short, but a few bucks in those days came hard. It was a blue Christmas Eve for me that long-ago night in Spokane.

Under the tree for me on Christmas morning was a shiny "Flexible Flyer" with the red, white, and blue eagle on the center plank. It was a tandem job, too. To me, there wasn't a more beautiful sight in the whole world. I looked at my dad, my eyes filled with gratitude.

"How did you know what I wanted?" I asked.

"I have ways," he smiled mysteriously, and as I now know, fathers do. But I was too excited to pursue my questions, and I raced out of the house, dragging my sled behind me.

I think my sled was the only "F.F." standing in front of St. Aloysius Church that morning. I proudly parked it right next to a Maxwell, a Franklin, a Stevens Duryea, and a couple of Model T's. I confess that my thoughts were not where they should have been during Mass. Afterwards, I stood impatiently at the church door with my dad, as he chatted with the priest. I glanced in the direction of the parking area and saw a group of teen-agers huddled around the spot where I had put my sled. My heart skipped a beat. I had a horrible thought that one of the cars had run over the sled and that my friends were examining the ruins. I flew down the church steps two at a time. When I reached the group, I heard ooh's and aah's. There was my sled, just as bright and shiny as ever, and in one whole beautiful piece. I heaved a sigh of relief, contacted my secret love, invited her to go sledding with me, and then we were on our way.

Hooking the tow rope onto the rear axle of a northbound coal truck, we were at Ledgerwood Hill and careening down its precipitous declines within the hour. It was a clear crisp December day, and I had the cutest girl and surely the slickest sled on the hill. I have never felt so lordly before or since. It was the type of Christmas scene you would expect to see in one of Grandma Moses' paintings.

A big bonfire was blazing on the side of the hill. One of the other kids, Herbie, had filched a dozen potatoes from the family root cellar for roasting in the hot ashes. I traded him two rides on my Double-F for six murphies and, believe me, they tasted even better than pommes de terre à la maison at the Tour d'Argent in Paris.

As darkness approached, we spied the coal truck on its way back to town. We flagged it, and again hooked onto that stout rear axle, this time in a long procession of sleds. All the way home we sang, laughed, and pelted one another with snowballs.

I have traveled many different "Roads" in my motion-picture career, but that road up Ledgerwood Hill brings to my mind the sweetest memories of all.

DAVID NIVEN

Dear Ed,

My most memorable contribution to Christmas—if I can call it that—and indeed my only conscious effort in this direction happened on Christmas, 1939.

I had just arrived in England from Hollywood to volunteer for the British Army. Having had some previous military experience, I was commissioned a second lieutenant and given command of a platoon. We were about to be sent to France, and no one was very happy about it. Most of the men had been conscripted from good civilian jobs; this was the "phony-war" period before the big German attack of the following spring, and it all seemed a ridiculous waste of time to most of them. Being commanded by a Hollywood movie star was an additional irritant for them and made the whole thing seem even more ridiculous. The men were not mutinous—but they were certainly 40 of the least well-disposed characters I have ever been associated with, let alone been in command of.

We were not permitted liberty on that Christmas Eve because we were due to leave England and our families the next day—a fine prospect for the holidays. The entire platoon was billeted in the shabby stables of a farm near Dover. Each man gathered up what little straw he could find for use as bedding.

I could sense that everyone disliked me intensely. The air was thick with sarcastic cracks about my motion-picture bravery in "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "The Dawn Patrol," and "The Prisoner of Zenda."

It so happens that every night of my life I have knelt down by my bed and said a few simple prayers—I am ashamed to say that, in general, these prayers, if heeded, would aid my personal well-being no end. Nevertheless, they were prayers of a sort—to God.

I was faced with a difficult decision. If I suddenly knelt in prayer, the chances were that 40 tough soldiers would take it as final evidence of Hollywood flamboyance.

On the other hand, I have always felt that prayers said in comfortable and unobtrusive positions don't really count.

Finally I plucked up my courage. I knelt and said my prayers.

As I prayed, the snickering and the laughter slowly died away.

I suppose the exciting end of this story would be that some vast, hulking conscript kicked me over, whereupon I fought valiantly and victoriously for the sake of our Lord.

The true ending was far more satisfactory.

When I finished my prayers and lay down again on the straw, I looked rather sheepishly around the stable and saw at least a dozen soldiers kneeling quietly and praying in their own way.

GEORGE ZAHARIAS

Dear Ed,
Babe Didrikson and I were married two days before Christmas in 1938. We decided to drive to Pueblo, Colo., to spend Christmas with my folks, then continue on to Beaumont, Tex., to visit Babe's parents on New Year's.

Seventy-five miles past Amarillo, Tex., we ran into a heavy snowstorm. I frequently had to rock the car back and forth to get free of the drifts which piled up before us. The snow covered the windshield faster than the wipers could clean it off, and I was forced to drive with my head sticking out of the side window. In no time at all, my hair and eyebrows were matted with snow. I remember Babe looking at me and laughing. "When I was a little girl," she said, "I often dreamed of riding with Santa Claus. Now, not only am I riding with him, I'm married to him."

The next drift I swerved to avoid was the one that did it. The transmission broke under the strain. I got out to look for help, but there wasn't a sign of life to be seen. We might just as well have been stuck on the North Pole.

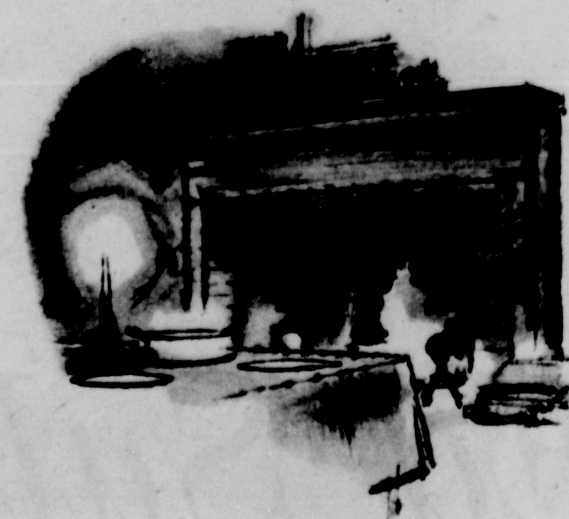

I cut through the storm for about a quarter of a mile and spotted the dark shadow of a house set well back from the road. When I returned to the car, Babe peeked at me from deep within a blanket. Anxiety filled her eyes. I told her about my lucky discovery, and we set out for the house. As we made our way slowly and laboriously toward it, Babe's spirits perked up. She suggested facetiously that we get her golf clubs out of the car and convert them into snowshoes and ski poles.

When we reached the house—a long time later—nearly blinded by snow, we knocked loudly but there was no answer. We tried the door and it opened. We walked cautiously into a nicely furnished living room equipped (hallelujah!) with a fireplace and plenty of logs. But no owners.

I built a fire, and Babe and I settled down to wait for our hosts' return, wondering how they would react to finding us there. The warmth of the fire made us very drowsy, and before we knew it both of us had dozed off.

It was close to 9 p.m. when I awoke. I had slept for three hours. The fire had gone out, and the little house was pitch dark. I heard Babe stir on the sofa. "You must be starved," she said. "Let's see what I can round up to eat."

"First," I replied, "I'd better get the fire going.

The electricity doesn't seem to be working."

We poked around the kitchen by match light. The refrigerator was empty, but Babe found three cans of pork and beans and held them up triumphantly. "I guess they wouldn't mind if we helped ourselves to these," she said.

As Babe prepared to cook our Christmas Eve dinner in the fireplace, I went outside. The storm had eased somewhat, and I walked to the car to get a suitcase. When I returned, I was greeted by a delicious aroma and a magnificent sight. Babe had moved the kitchen table in front of the fireplace and had decorated it with a red tablecloth, dishes, silverware and, most welcome of all, a steaming bowl of pork and beans. A candle was burning in the center. "Merry Christmas, honey," she said.

At daybreak, the distant rattle of snowplows awakened us. An hour later the plows were at the house and, behind them, in their car, were our overdue hosts, the Bowens.

"My wife and I," Mr. Bowen said, "hoped you'd be here when we saw your abandoned car. We're so glad that you made yourselves at home."

Babe would frequently talk about our first Christmas together in the years that followed. Her eyes always became bright with the memory. She remembered it particularly that last Christmas of her life, 19 years later.

Babe was in the hospital in Galveston, Tex.—her strong athletic body wasted by cancer. The morning before Christmas, she called me to her side and said she would like to spend Christmas out of the hospital. She mentioned our friends, the Bowens, then of Fort Worth, and asked me to phone them and see if it would be all right for us to visit them. I turned to the doctor standing near the door. He shrugged his shoulders as if to say, "Why not?"

Late that afternoon, the Bowens arrived in Galveston in their private plane, and we lifted Babe on board for the trip to Fort Worth. I could see that she was in terrible pain, and I wondered if I had acted wisely in granting her request.

All through Christmas Day, Babe talked and joked as if she hadn't a care in the world. When Bertha Bowen called us to Christmas dinner, we saw a table piled high with every Christmas delicacy imaginable, and there in the place of honor—the very center of the table—flanked by the turkey on one side and the sweet potatoes on the other, stood a bowl of pork and beans.

Ben Stahl found most difficult this painting of the spectacular chariot race between Ben-Hur and Messala.

Stahl captured the starkness of a tragic scene in the canvas depicting The Crucifixion of Christ.

Masterpieces for "Ben-Hur"

A noted artist interprets some of the moments from a great classic—a collection of four paintings published exclusively for your enjoyment

FIVE YEARS ago, when M-G-M decided to remake the silent-film classic, "Ben-Hur," on a lavish scale, publicists felt it would require "extraordinary" promotional illustration on the level of "art."

While studying the de luxe editions of the Catholic Bible, published by Catholic Press, they were struck by the magnificent illustrations. The originals were by noted American artist Ben Stahl, who researched in Palestine for the series.

To M-G-M, Stahl seemed the logical choice to capture the drama of Gen. Lew Wallace's epic novel. He combined the necessary Biblical background with artistic talent. For Stahl, the "Ben-Hur" illustrations are the latest in a series of successes. He came into prominence as illustrator for national periodicals, and his work now hangs in museums.

Of all his assignments this was probably the most challenging. His success is reflected in these reproductions.

Christ preaches His Sermon on the Mount. Each painting took Stahl approximately two weeks.

Ben-Hur woos Esther, the girl he loves. Although Stahl was guided by the film, he was given great freedom of expression.

Medically acclaimed electromyograph proves Absorbine Jr.

Relieves Tired, Aching Muscles Twice As Fast!

Electromyograph shows that after normal period of rest when Absorbine Jr. is applied, tired, aching muscles recover twice as fast as when "nature takes its course."

When your muscles ache, doctors can now read their electric waves through the wonders of the new electromyograph machine. They have proved that Absorbine Jr. "brings aching muscles back" twice as fast as nature can.

These studies showed the speed with which Absorbine Jr. starts treating tired, aching muscles. When rubbed on, Absorbine Jr.

actually dilates the peripheral blood vessel walls, making local blood-flow speed up. Unlike mere pain-killers, Absorbine Jr. helps you get better, faster.

The Merriest Part of Christmas

My wife and youngsters went all out,
Their gifts for me are handsome—
A wrist watch, golf clubs, luggage, desk
That cost a prince's ransom.

But handkerchiefs from friends are what I really say "Hooray" for
And ties from distant relatives—
Those I don't have to pay for!

Two friends were telling each other what they'd bought their wives for Christmas. "I got her a string of pearls with earrings to match," one said.

"Pearls!" the other exclaimed. "If you were going to spend that much money, why didn't you get something practical like an auto?"

The friend smiled. "Ever hear of a phony auto?"

Estimates I Could Have Improved On

"For 20 hungry kids, we'd better figure on... oh, say, two quarts of ice cream."

"In addition to her tuition, room, and board, we'd better figure on $50 or $60 a year for incidentals."

"You know how prolific cats are. I expect she'll have two or three kittens."

"This film only runs 97 minutes, but on television I guess we'd better figure another three or four for commercials."

"The Silver Pheasant is a wonderful inn, but expensive. If you take four people there, better bring along a ten-spot."

"The people we've invited to the party are sensible. They'll clear out by midnight."

"You'll use up most of the day driving through Texas."

Holiday Art—with Soap

It's easy to do and fun for the whole family

DECORATING the house for the holidays has a way of bringing out the artist in every member of the family. And we've discovered a wonderful new medium for do-it-yourself Christmas designs that needs nothing more than a bowl of soapsuds and a free-ranging imagination.

You can paint a picture window to look like stained glass with soapsuds mixed with tempera colors (it washes off with a sponge)—or, with a thicker mixture, model snowballs, snow men, and handsome table decorations that dry to last as long as you want them.

We asked the internationally famed designer Tom Lee to make the designs on this page. But you can make up your own, copying the traditional holly wreaths and candles or creating abstract designs like the lovely radiating star on the window above.

Suds Recipes

For painting: Pour several cups of packaged soap (or detergent) and a small quantity of water in a bowl. Blend with an electric or hand beater until mixture is a whipped-cream texture.

Divide suds into as many bowls as there are colors to be used. Add tempera paint—or food coloring—and apply with a paintbrush. (Preliminary design can be outlined with cake soap.)

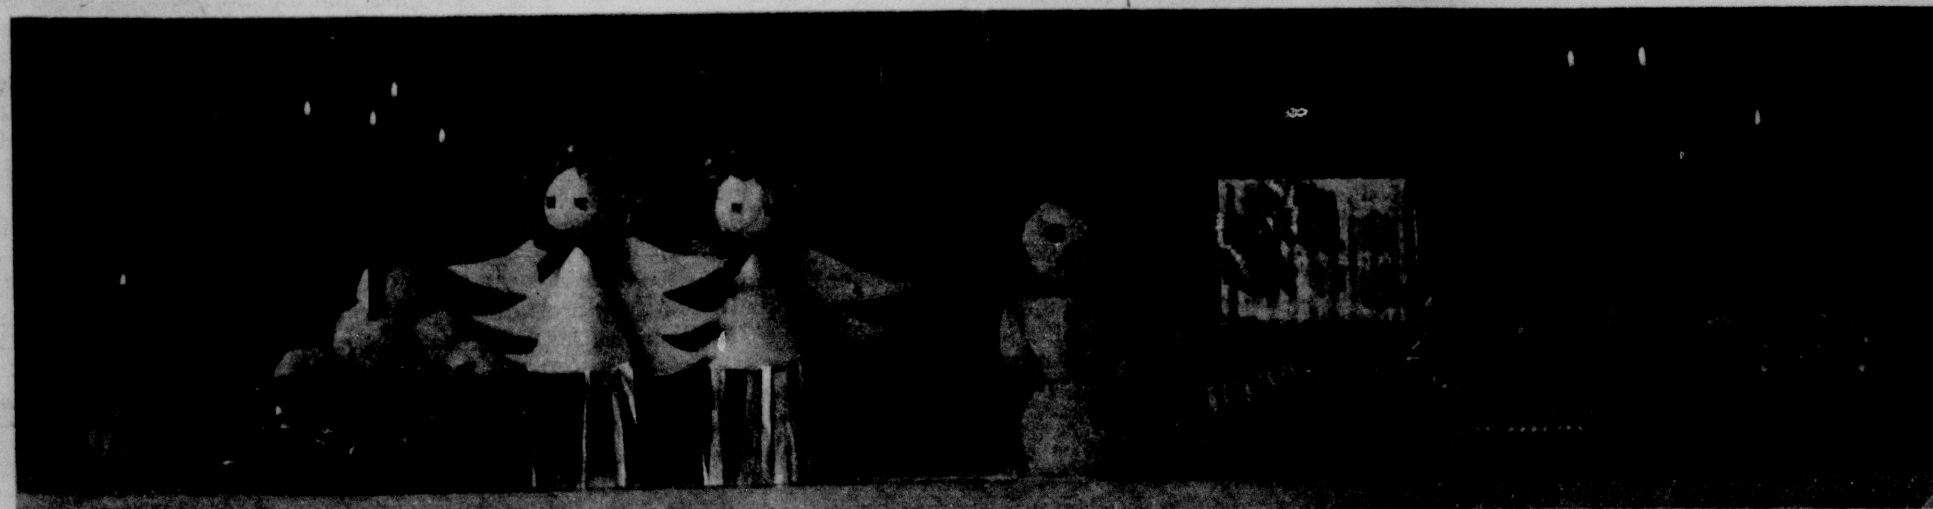

For modeling: Stir enough soap detergent into the creamy mixture to give it the consistency of soft clay.

Use simple designs for single windows like the ones shown above. They are fun for the children to make, look gay inside and out.

To mothers, that cry means that there's another cut, scratch, scrape, or burn. It also means she should get iodine—but she often doesn't, because iodine burns and stings, upsets youngsters. Here's good news. Science has discovered a new kind of iodine that stops infection best yet doesn't burn or sting. It's polyvinylpyrrolidone-iodine, found only in ISODINE® ANTISEPTIC. Where other types of antiseptics may kill only 1, 2, or 3 types of germs, ISODINE kills all types—even virus and fungus. And up to 40 times faster. Get painless ISODINE ANTISEPTIC. Junior Treasure Chest

A Christmas Puzzle:

Find Santa, a Doll, and an Airplane

I was just thinking...

THIS is how Christmas ought to be.

The family together, all of it. The ones who drove from before dawn until after dark. The ones who came by train in the maddening rush. The ones who caught the last plane and sat waiting for fog to lift, praying the flight wouldn't be cancelled.

Christmas is not really Christmas unless the family is together. It's the time of belonging, the time of the frankly sentimental binding of the ties which another time, another season cannot acknowledge, lest it be considered childish.

At Christmas all the world has a right to return to childhood.

And now the tree is lighted, the tall tree reaching ceilingward, its needles trembling in the heat, its lights bright yet dim in the incense of excitement. And even the eldest must face at last the rising tide of anticipation and the youngest delight in the touch of ribbon and paper.

It matters little that some of the packages are works of art and others tied with knotted string, for these are all symbols of love and the joy of belonging.

The puppy barks in rapture and attacks the boxes and labels. The baby finds as much delight in a torn wrapping as in the expensive trinkets brought the long miles in his honor.

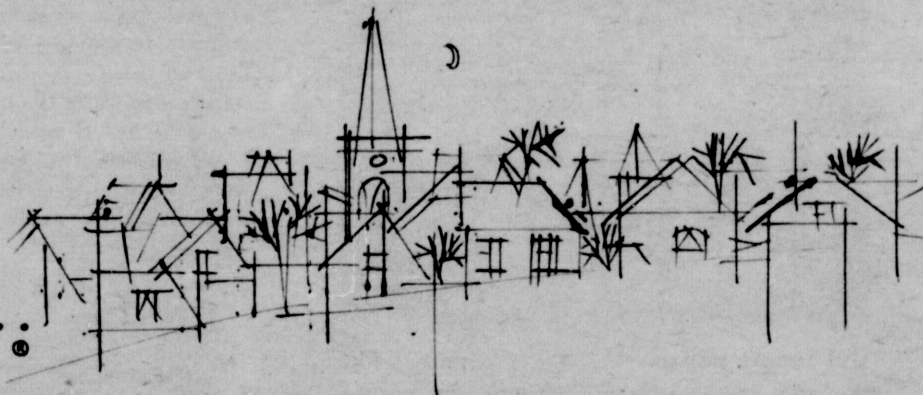

And, finally, it is finished. The gifts are allotted and opened. Their contents are admired and discussed. It is as inevitable that the shorts are too small as that the sweater is too large and that there will be both awe at largesse and anxiety at mistake. But it is all submerged in the magnitude of the confusion and the baby crying and the puppy barking and the smell of the dinner cooking and the chaos of this blessed time.

There are too many people, too many presents, too much of everything. And all this is as it should be.

For this is Christmas.

To the family—and to all—with love.

Has Arthur Murray Gone Crazy?

WHY IS HE GIVING AWAY HIS DANCE SECRETS IN A $3.95 BOOK?

"I'm not crazy; just realistic," says Arthur Murray. "I know that it's not convenient for some people to get to one of my Studios—or they just haven't time to take Studio Lessons. So I'm bringing my method to their homes—in this brand-new book which they can try out, free and without obligation."

HERE'S A REAL OPPORTUNITY for the person who wants to dance well—and enjoy all the popularity, self-confidence and good times that go with it. Arthur and Kathryn Murray have prepared a new book! It shows you how to become good at everything from the waltz to the cha-cha, from the fox trot or tango to the West Indian merengue.

Arthur Murray has put his forty years of dance secrets into this book, HOW TO BECOME A GOOD DANCER. His method is so simple, so sure-fire, that anyone can easily master all the steps after just a little practice.

The Magic Diagrams That Cost $10,000 to Produce

"Many years ago I hit upon a discovery for teaching dancing that everyone had overlooked—probably because it was staring them right in the face," says Arthur Murray. "People learn to dance by looking at their own feet, not somebody else's. So I drew footprint patterns of every step."

It took many experiments and over $10,000 to perfect this system of diagrams. Murray's new book is filled with them. They show you exactly where to put your feet during every step of every dance; where to put your weight. Detailed illustrations show couples actually dancing the steps. You learn the secrets of leading and following; how to hold your partner; all the little subtleties that make you look good on the dance floor.

"There is No Such Thing as a Difficult Dance"

Take the cha-cha, for example. You've probably sat it out time and again because it looked difficult. Yet, here it is on this page, broken down into its elements. Isn't it actually simple—when "The Man Who Gave America Dancing Feet" shows you how?

The same goes for every other dance. Now when the band breaks into a merengue you'll be up there with the best of them. When it's waltz time, you'll be gliding across the floor like a professional. A tango... a fox trot... an exciting rumba... the mambo... samba... swing (lindy)... rock 'n' roll... you'll have every step of these dances at your command.

Plus "Dance Secrets" from Kathryn Murray

When you have learned the steps—using the 201 helpful diagrams and sketches that fill this book—you can apply the all-important finishing touches provided by Kathryn Murray, the hostess of "The Arthur Murray Party" on NBC-TV. These are the little things that make you a polished dancer: 14 dancing don'ts; why you should accent your dancing; which dance "types" to avoid; how to apply the all-important Law of Opposites; and much more.

Free 10-Day Trial

As you know, the dividends to be derived from becoming an excellent dancer are many: new poise and self-confidence; countless evenings of pleasure; the popularity and new friends enjoyed by those whose presence is always desired at social affairs; improved health, posture, and physical appearance; the gratification of doing well something you have always wanted to do.

Of course, the only way to prove to yourself that HOW TO BECOME A GOOD DANCER can help you do just that is to try this new Arthur Murray book at home. You may have a copy to use for ten days at no cost. Learn as many dances as you like. Practice with your friends.

Then make your choice: either you agree that Arthur Murray's famous method will teach you how to dance well—or you return the book and owe nothing. The coupon will bring you the book for this free-examination trial. SIMON AND SCHUSTER, INC., Dept. FD, 630 Fifth Avenue, New York 20, New York.

GOLDEN FRUITCAKE

TO PREPARE: 50 MIN.

TO BAKE: 1 HR. 15 MIN.

- 10 oz. (about 2 cups) blanched almonds
- 14 oz. (about 2 cups) pitted dates, cut lengthwise in quarters
- ½ lb. (about 1½ cups) dark seedless raisins
- ½ lb. (about 1½ cups) golden raisins
- 6 oz. (about 1 cup) candied red cherries, cut in halves
- 6 oz. (about 1 cup) candied green cherries, cut in halves
- 6 oz. (about 1 cup) diced candied orange peel
- 6 oz. (about 1 cup) diced candied lemon peel
- 6 oz. (about 1 cup) diced candied citron
- 6 oz. (about 1 cup) diced candied pineapple
- 2½ cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1¼ cups butter
- 1¼ cups honey
- 6 eggs, well beaten (until thick and piled softly)

1. Grease bottoms only of two 9½ x 5¼ x 2¾-in. loaf pans. Line with waxed paper cut to fit bottoms; grease waxed paper. Set aside.
2. Heat almonds in a 300°F oven for 10 min. While hot, split into halves. Mix together in a large bowl the almond halves and all the fruit. Set aside.

3. Sift flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, and ginger together. Set aside.

4. Cream butter until softened. Blend in the honey. Add beaten eggs in thirds, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add dry ingredients in fourths, blending only until smooth after each addition. Turn batter over fruit mixture and mix thoroughly. Turn into prepared pans and spread evenly into corners.

5. Bake at 300°F about 1 hr. 15 min., or until cake tester or wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean.

6. Remove from oven to cooling racks. Cool 15 min. before removing from pans. Run spatula gently around sides of pan. Cover with cooling rack. Invert. Turn right side up immediately after peeling off waxed paper. Cool thoroughly. Wrap tightly in aluminum foil or moisture-vapor-proof material and store in a cool place.

PEACH-MACAROON MOLD

TO PREPARE: 30 MIN.

TO CHILL: 4-6 HRS.

- 1 doz. 2-in. dry macaroons (If necessary, dry macaroons on a baking sheet in a 325°F oven about 10 min.; cool.)
- 1 No. 2½ can peach slices, drained and diced (about 1½ cups, diced)
- Reserved peach sirup and water (enough to make 2 cups liquid)
- ½ cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons (2 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- 2 cups chilled whipping cream
- 2 egg whites
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar

1. Gently crush macaroons to make fine crumbs (about 1 cup crumbs). Set aside.
2. Pour cold water into a small bowl. Sprinkle gelatin evenly over water. Let stand 5 min. to soften.
3. Heat reserved peach sirup until very hot. Remove from heat; immediately stir in the softened gelatin until completely dissolved. Stir in the lemon juice and almond extract.

4. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until gelatin mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white.

5. Lightly oil a 2-qt. mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); drain. Chill a bowl and rotary beater.

6. When gelatin mixture is of desired consistency, fold in the macaroon crumbs and diced peaches.

7. Using chilled bowl and beater, beat 1 cup of the whipping cream until it is of medium consistency (piles softly). Turn onto gelatin mixture. Beat remaining whipping cream and turn onto previously whipped cream.

8. Using a clean bowl and beater, beat egg whites and salt until frothy. Add sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed. Spread beaten egg whites over whipped cream-gelatin mixture and gently fold together, blending thoroughly. Turn into prepared mold. Chill 4 to 6 hrs. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate. If desired, garnish with stuffed dates, Angelica, and maraschino cherries.

ROAST GOOSE

Clean (singe, if necessary), removing any layers of fat from body cavity of one goose, 10 to 12 lbs., ready-to-cook weight. (If goose is frozen, thaw according to directions on package.) Cut off neck at body, leaving on neck skin. Rinse and pat dry with absorbent paper. Rub cavities of goose with salt. Place quartered, cored, unpared apples, halved onions, celery pieces, and quartered oranges inside goose. To close body cavity, sew or skewer, and lace with a cord. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Loop cord around legs and tighten slightly. Place goose, breast side down, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast, uncovered, at 325°F for 2½ hrs., removing fat from pan several times during this period. Reserve fat for gravy. Turn goose, breast side up, and roast 1 to 2 hrs. longer, or until goose tests done. (Allow 25 min. per lb. for total roasting time.) To test for doneness, move leg gently by grasping end of bone. When done, drumstick-thigh joint moves easily. To serve, remove skewers and cord. Place on warm serving platter and garnish as desired.

LAYERED AVOCADO-TOMATO SALAD

TO PREPARE: 25 MIN.

TO CHILL: 4 HRS.

- ½ cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 cups sieved avocado (about 2 avocados)
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold tomato juice
- 1½ cups hot tomato juice
- ¼ cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon onion salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 drops Tabasco

1. Pour ½ cup cold water into a small bowl. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon gelatin evenly over water. Let stand about 5 min. to soften.

2. Add softened gelatin to hot water and stir until completely dissolved. Stir in the sugar and 1½ teaspoons salt. Cool.

3. Lightly oil a 1½-qt. ring mold with salad or cooking oil (not olive oil); drain.

4. When gelatin mixture is cooled, stir in a mixture of the sieved avocado and ¼ cup lemon juice. Turn into the mold. Chill until partially set.

5. Soften 1 tablespoon gelatin in the cold tomato juice about 5 min. Add softened gelatin to hot tomato juice and stir until completely dissolved. Blend in the remaining ingredients.

6. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture is slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white.

7. When first layer in mold is partially set, immediately turn tomato mixture into the mold. (Both layers should be of almost the same consistency when combined to avoid separation when unmolded.) Chill until firm.

8. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate. Garnish with parsley. Fill center with ripe olives.

CORN-BREAD STUFFING BALLS

CONVENIENCE FOOD RECIPE

TO PREPARE: 15 MIN.

TO HEAT: 10-15 MIN.

- ¾ cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups finely chopped celery
- ¼ cup instant minced onion
- 3 cups chicken broth (use 3 chicken bouillon cubes and 3 cups hot water)
- 1 8-oz. pkg. stuffing mix.
- 4 cups corn-bread crumbs
- 2½ cups finely diced apple
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

1. Heat butter in a saucepan. Add celery and cook until tender. Stir in the onion and broth and heat thoroughly.

2. Prepare stuffing mix according to directions on package for moist stuffing. Add broth mixture and toss lightly to blend thoroughly. Lightly toss in remaining ingredients.

3. Lightly shape stuffing mixture into balls, using about ½ cup for each ball. Place on greased baking sheets.

4. Heat in a 350°F oven 10 to 15 min., or until thoroughly heated.

for people who like to draw

IF YOU LIKE TO DRAW, America's 12 Most Famous Artists want to test your art talent. We'd like to help you find out whether you can be trained to be a successful, money-making artist.

This offer is part of a program we began ten years ago. We found that many men and women who could have become artists — and should have become artists — never did. Most of them were unsure of their talent and had no way of finding out whether it was worth developing. Others who were convinced they had talent simply couldn't get top notch professional art training without leaving home or giving up their jobs.

A Plan to Help Others

We decided to do something about this. We decided to make it possible for anyone, anywhere, who likes to draw — and who has talent worth developing — to get the training he needs to become an artist. Taking time off from our busy art careers, we pooled the extensive knowledge of art, the professional know-how, and the priceless trade secrets which we, ourselves, were able to learn only through long and successful experience.

We illustrated this knowledge with 5,000 special drawings; then organized it into a series of lessons covering every aspect of drawing and painting... lessons that anyone could take right in their own homes and in their spare time. Finally — after years of teaching — we perfected what is probably the most personal and effective method ever developed for criticizing a student's drawings and paintings.

Our program of art training is now well known and respected all over America. During the past ten years, we have helped thousands of people find success in art. Here are just a few:

Don Smith lives in New Orleans. Three years ago Don knew nothing about art — even doubted he had talent. Today, he is an illustrator with a leading advertising agency in the South — and has a future as big as he wants to make it.

Father of Three Wins New Career

Stanley Bowen — a married man with three children, unhappy in a "dead-end" job — began studying with us, evenings. Now he's earning a much higher salary as an illustrator for a growing art studio. And his family sees a happy, secure future ahead.

With our training, Wanda Pickulski of Rexford, N. Y., was able to give up her typing job to become fashion artist for a local department store.

Changes His Whole Life

"Your course has been the difference between failure and success for me," writes Robert Meecham of Ontario, Canada. "I've come from an $18.00 a week apprentice to where I now own my own house, two cars, and hold stock in two companies."

Earns Seven Times As Much

Eric Ericson used to be a clerk in an auto parts department. Thanks to our training, he is now an art director at seven times the salary he was making when he enrolled.

When Kathryn Gorsuch of Mt. Vernon, Ohio found out she was to have a baby — she left her filing job at an aircraft company and studied art at home with us. By the time the baby was seven months old, she went back to work for the same company... this time as a well-paid commercial artist.

John Whitaker of Memphis was an airline clerk when he enrolled with us. Two years later, he won a prize in a national cartooning contest and was signed to do a daily comic strip for a group of newspapers.

Profitable Hobby — at 72

A great-grandmother in Newark, Ohio decided to use her spare time to study painting. Recently, she had her first local "one-man" show — where she sold thirty-two water colors and five oil paintings.

Donald Kern — a cowboy from Miles City, Montana — studied art with us. Now he paints portraits, sells them for $250 each, and gets all the business he can handle.

Mother Boosts Family's Income

Elizabeth Merriss — busy New York mother — now adds to her family income by designing gift wrappings and greeting cards and illustrating children's books.

In just four months Doris White of Wauwatosa, Wis., has painted and sold $750 worth of paintings... all in her spare time!

Send for Famous Artists Talent Test

To find other men and women with talent worth developing, we have created a special 12-page Art Talent Test. Thousands of people formerly paid $1 for this test. But now our School offers it free and will grade it free. People who reveal talent through this test are eligible for professional training by the School... right in their own homes.

If you like to draw and want to know if you have talent worth developing — mail the coupon today. The test will be mailed to you without cost or obligation.
